Tot's Father Found Guilty, Gets 10 Years

Death of Five-Year-old Diver Brings Verdict of Manslaughter

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—Russell Tongay was convicted of manslaughter Monday in the high-dive death of his swimming star daughter and sentenced to 10 years at hard labor.

An all-male Circuit Court jury deliberated less than an hour before it returned a guilty verdict against the 36-year-old ex-Coast Guardsman who had been pictured as a drillmaster who made his children perform difficult aquatic feats.

His weeping wife, the main witness for the defense, was in the courtroom as the verdict was returned. Tongay himself appeared imperturable, as he had through most of the four-day trial.

Defense Attorney Louis Jepeway asked for four days in which to plan an appeal.

In his summation, assistant prosecutor A. C. Dressler asserted that for "purely selfish gain" Tongay put his children through perilous routines for their "Aquatots" act.

The child died last May 6, several hours after a high dive which the state contended resulted in a fatal injury.

Mrs. Tongay testified that five-year-old Kathy executed "beautiful" dives from the 33-foot-high board the day the state contended she was fatally injured.

Attorney Jepeway, who said the verdict "came as a shock—everyone was surprised," moved for a new trial, which was denied. Judge Ben Willard revoked Tongay's $1,000 pre-trial bond, but set a $5,000 appeal bond.

The jury made up its mind in 52 minutes, but had to be sent back briefly to re-draft the verdict.

Mrs. Tongay testified that "it was as natural for Kathy to dive as for another child to walk around a pool."

Her testimony contradicted that of other witnesses, including expert aquatic instructors, that Kathy never struck the water correctly when she attempted the high dive.

Mrs. Tongay admitted that Kathy complained, "Mommy, my neck hurts" after the early morning swimming and diving practice.

A doctor was called later, but did not arrive until 6 p.m., she said, and then Kathy was taken to a hospital but died. "Before the doctor got to the hospital—we had lost Kathy."

An autopsy disclosed that the child died of a ruptured intestine and complications.

Plows Pile Faster than Diggers Can Dig

Frustration faced these three women as they tried to dig themselves out of two feet of snow which blocked their Langford Lake homes. They were thwarted by snow plows which threw on a fresh pile of snow as fast as they could dig away. This nuisance has plagued them for 12 days. Many cars are snowed in for duration of the cold snap at Langford. Main roads are all open, but chains are advised.

More Snow Predicted For Island

All Main Roads Open for Traffic

More snow is coming, according to weather forecaster William Mackie. All of British Columbia is digging its way out after a heavy snowfall over the week-end and Monday.

The storm centre over northern Vancouver Island was almost stationary and weakening rapidly. However, another disturbance developing 400 miles west of the B.C. coast was expected to be felt here by morning.

Snow was expected over northern Vancouver Island from this storm, and mixed rain and snow over southern Vancouver Island.

Traffic was snarled almost to a standstill Monday morning.

Victoria's snow turned to rain and left the streets a slippery, slushy mess.

But snow started falling here again last night.

All main roads on Vancouver Island were passable yesterday, but chains were needed in most places.

Campbell River had more than two feet of snow over the week end to add to the two feet it already had.

Nanaimo has had 4½ feet of snow this month. It had 16 inches of fresh snow Sunday night and more yesterday.

Fifty-nine Island schools with a total enrollment of 9,240 have been closed.

On the Island, 15,000 persons are jobless, the National Employment Service reports.

Worst hit on the lower Island is the Langford-Colwood-Happy Valley area, which had two feet of snow by last night.

Buses are being crowded by workers who have decided home is the best place for their cars.

Because firemen can't get out of their driveways to answer calls, the Langford fire department has put three men on night duty at the station.

At Crofton it was raining yesterday but it was snowing at nearby Chemainus, which has 18 inches of snow.

Only five out of 32 men called for longshore work showed up at Chemainus. The rest were snowed in at side roads. But all of a crew from Victoria reported.

Nanaimo has stopped all parking on downtown streets. Schools have been closed since Friday and bus service to many areas of the city was not operating yesterday.

MacMillan & Bloedel workers at Harmac Mill were not able to report to work until 10 a.m. Monday, after plows opened the highway.

Pacific Biological Station at Departure Bay was isolated.

Schools were closed in the Parksville district.

Heavy snow was blamed for a train-car collision early Monday at Craig's Crossing near Parksville.

A. J. Hjordsvar escaped injury when he drove into an E & N freight train, but his car sustained about $1,000 damage.

It snowed at Port Alberni all day yesterday. Buses were running on schedule and the mountain highway was open.

At Campbell River the government grader was sent to Kelsey Bay to clear the way for a Salmon River Logging Company ambulance rushing Clifford Buxton to hospital with acute appendicitis.

In Vancouver, 100,000 school children were ordered to stay home.

Vancouver's International Airport was still operating yesterday as snowplows and flame throwers fought big drifts.

Some TCA flights to Victoria were canceled.

Coffee $1.25 Next Month

A retail coffee price of $1.15 a pound is expected very soon, and $1.25 a pound by the end of February, Vancouver Island wholesalers report.

Popular brands' prices now range to about $1.10 a pound, it was reported. One spokesman said that on the present wholesale level of $1.05 a pound the retail prices should be $1.15 now to allow a sufficient operating markup for retailers.

The last price jump, eight days ago, was three cents a pound. Just before that, a buyers' rush developed, and has affected the market slightly.

It was felt that only less consumption might help straighten out the market, which is suffering from a shortage of coffee.

The National Coffee Association says the increases resulted from a "tight situation of supply" caused by a drought one year and a frost the next, which damaged a large part of Brazil's coffee crop.

Island wholesalers said they are directly affected by the open market demand for the crop, and that when it is in their warehouses they are also faced with its perishability.

"The 10-cent cup of coffee may also vanish in city restaurants when prices reach about $1.20, one restaurateur said. Twelve cents seemed a likely price, he said.

Other restaurant operators also felt that when prices reached that stage, they would have to make some changes in their operations.

Russia Hints Deal On Korean Peace

BERLIN (UP)—Russia offered Monday at the opening of the Big Four conference to end the deadlock in Korean peace negotiations if the West would admit Red China to a five-power conference.

Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov warned at the same time that unless the European army plan is scrapped, the Soviets might organize a similar eastern bloc.

Molotov's tough and generally uncompromising statement was studded with demands that would spell the wrecking of the Western defense setup and the abandonment of far-flung U.S. bases.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles declined Molotov's invitation to reply at once. He said the speech included several new points and attacks on U.S. policy, and he would "prefer to sleep on it."

Dulles, Molotov, Anthony Eden of Britain and Georges Bidault of France met for three hours and 45 minutes in the Allied control council building.

Molotov put a meeting with China at the top of his proposed agenda for the present conference. Germany, including European security, and an Austrian treaty were his second and third points.

Observing that the whole Korean situation was confused and efforts to arrange a peace conference had broken down, Molotov said:

"All this is to a great extent connected with the absence of normal relations between certain great powers (the United States and Red China).

"There can be no doubt that the calling of a five-power meeting would contribute to the removal of a number of difficulties existing now in regard to the Korean question and to the solution of certain other urgent international problems."

The West countered with its own peace program. It was based on the unification of Germany after all-German elections, guarantees against anti-Soviet aggression, and President Eisenhower's atomic pool plan.

Eden offered the Soviets additional security guarantees if they still felt uneasy over Western defense alliances — the European Defense Community and the North Atlantic Alliance.

Library To Remove Pro-Red Volumes

A "clean-up" of subversive pro-Communist books on the shelves of the Victoria Public Library may be undertaken soon, it was learned yesterday.

A member of the 1954 library board has stated that literature "of a subversive nature" should be removed from a library which is supported by public funds in a democratic country.

He said he may start an investigation into the matter to determine what the library carries. He said he did not object to historical books on Communist philosophy, but to current literature which supported the party line on national and international affairs.

Mayor Claude Harrison stated recently he "very much doubted" the wisdom of a public library carrying such material. He said no one should be told what to read, but a public library should extoll the way of life which supports it. If anyone wants the other kind of reading, he said, they should buy it.

Centenarian Dies

Mistress of "Fernwood," historic residence at Oak Bay Junction, for the last 78 years, Mrs. B. W. Pearse, prominent Victorian, died at the week end at the age of 100. Her death recalls an era of color and grandeur in Victoria which is recounted in a story on page 11.

Marilyn Monroe Suspended Again

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Marilyn Monroe was suspended again Monday by her studio shortly after she had turned down a movie assignment.

Twentieth Century-Fox said it had made a "tremendous investment" in the vehicle for baseball star Joe DiMaggio's bride—who failed to report at the studio on schedule Monday. It added:

"If Miss Monroe's failure to appear is based on her desire to approve scripts, the studio wishes to point out that the outstanding success of her previous vehicles is evidence enough of the studio's ability to select stories for her."

The studio said the film "Pink Tights," will "definitely remain on the production schedule."

A spokesman said he thought this meant the star would be replaced "unless she comes into line real fast."

Earlier, her lawyer announced:

"Miss Monroe has authorized me to make this statement: She has read the script and does not care to do the picture."

Divisions Sharp In Liquor Letters

BY THE JUDGE

As I expected when the question of the new liquor system was posed, there's a sharp division in the first flood of mail received today.

Some letter writers are frankly "drys," others are tolerant, while few to date could be classed as frankly "wets."

But there's the rest of this week to go yet, and $35 in prizes remaining. So let the Judge hear from you on:

"What do you think of the new liquor system?"

Enough dallying for now, however. Let's get on with the best letters today:

DEFINITELY GOOD!

Dear Judge,

Definitely good; Almost anything would be better than the present furtive, bottle-under-the-table-room-in-the-hotel system of drinking.

Those who are voting it are probably doing it on moral grounds. Why? There will always be wine and spirits in the world, and far better to train our youth to handle it moderately (if inclined), than to force them to abstain. I don't think tourists will visit Victoria for its cocktail bars or cabarets, their home towns probably already have more glamorous ones. They will find such places useful as resting places, between sight-seeing jaunts.

I'm looking forward to this year's Wedding Anniversary, when we are able to dine out and wine out!

MARY CHAFFEY,
577 Brookleigh Road,
Royal Oak.

(I hope it's a good anniversary, and have the first one on the Judge with the $2 award for this best letter of the day.)

Express Races Royal Car

Pilot Plans Second Try With Food for Eskimos

EDMONTON (CP) — An RCAF Dakota carrying food for destitute Eskimos and their starving dogs at Perry River, 1,100 miles northeast of Edmonton, was unable to make a landing Monday and another attempt will be made today.

The RCAF at Edmonton said Sqdn. Ldr. Mel Bryan of Fort William advised that the aircraft was unable to land because of weather at both Perry River and at Cambridge Bay, 1,200 miles northeast of Edmonton.

The plane carried 2,400 pounds of buffalo meat and rolled oats in response to an emergency appeal from an RCMP constable that the 12-family band of Eskimos were using their own food to feed the starving dogs.

Sqdn. Ldr. Bryan reported from Yellowknife, N.W.T., where the plane made an overnight stop after the unsuccessful bids to land at Perry River and Cambridge Bay.

The second attempt to land at Perry River, 500 miles northeast of Yellowknife, will be made at "first light" today.

Map Supply Dwindling For Readers

The final supply of 2,500 of the wonderful color maps of British Columbia is dwindling fast. The Daily Colonist is distributing the B.C. Natural Resources Conference maps at cost as a public service.

Maps may be picked up at the downtown offices on Broad Street for 55 cents (53 cents plus two cents tax) and by mail order to the Editorial Offices of the Colonist for 75 cents (72 cents plus three cents tax).

Prisoners Appeal To Reds

PANMUNJOM (AP) — UN prisoners of the Korean war who renounced their homelands said Tuesday they are asking the Communists to take them back as "free men."

The PWs now are stranded in the Korean neutral zone, unwilling to come back to the Allied side and barred by the Communists.

All 347 captives marched from their camp in the Korean neutral zone to Panmunjom for a press conference.

In a prepared statement, the PWs defended the Communists for refusing to take them back when India relinquished its neutral custody at midnight Friday.

Meanwhile in Washington, the defense department ordered the army to give dishonorable discharges to the 21 Americans who have refused to come home from Communist captivity in Korea.

The army had planned simply to give them "undesirable" discharges—an action considerably short of dishonorable discharge.

Claxton Refuses Request To Table Meyer Papers

OTTAWA (CP)—Progressive-Conservative Leader Drew tried unsuccessfully in the Commons Monday to pry from the government documents concerning the case of Nazi SS Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer.

A motion by Mr. Drew that the government make public all documents in its possession relating to Meyer's trial, original sentence, removal from the federal penitentiary at Dorchester, N.B., and reduced sentence was defeated by a vote of 102 to 63.

Opposing the motion, Mr. Claxton said: "Parliament is not the place to try or retry criminal cases."

Mr. Drew said there was no suggestion of a retrial. He added: "Kurt Meyer either was responsible for the death of young Canadians contrary to the rules of war or he was not. If he was not, then his name should be cleared. If he was, then the procedure that has been followed is not consistent with the best interests of the recognized practices of armies in the field."

Police Break Student Riot Against Britain

MADRID (Reuters) — More than 8,000 anti-British students battled sword-swinging Spanish police for three hours Monday in front of the British embassy in Madrid. Thirty students and 18 policemen were reported injured.

The rioting students shouting "We want Gibraltar," made 20 charges against 300 police wedged against the embassy building, hurling rocks as they advanced.

Canadian Dollars in New York On Par with Confederate Money

(Mr. Bruton returned to his regular duties as a Colonist staff reporter yesterday after two weeks in New York.)

By PETER BRUTON

Canadian dollars and Russian rubles are on par with Confederate money in New York today. As far as New Yorkers are concerned, all three currencies are just plain garbage.

Official exchange rates place the Canadian greenback at nearly three cents above its U.S. counterpart. But cashiers in night clubs, restaurants, shops and drug stores all refused to accept our money when it was offered to them last week.

We even had a taxi driver and a hatcheck girl demand American money when we offered them tips in Canadian silver.

"What's the big idea?" demanded a New York cabbie when he was given a 50-cent tip at the end of a $3 ride. There's a 15-cent (unofficial) minimum tipping charge in New York at present. We decided the tip was more than generous.

"Something the matter?" the driver was asked. "That's worth 51 and a half American cents."

"Listen, buddy," he replied. "I don't want any of this foreign stuff. I want American money."

To save further argument we complied. But it became progressively worse as the visit wore on. A clothing store on Lexington Avenue agreed to take Canadian dollars, but at a 5 per cent discount in favor of the firm.

A day or so later we visited Eddie Condon's night club down in Greenwich Village. A tip to the hatcheck girl and . . .

"Now just a minute, just a minute," she began. "This," she said, picking up a Canadian two-bit piece, "is no good at all. Neither is this" (another one).

The crowning glory came when we visited the United Nations Building—an immense glass tower on the banks of the East River. The UN is supposed to be working to foster friendship among the peoples of the world.

We tried to buy a few postcards with a Canadian dollar bill.

"American money only," the cashier snapped.

We were thankful that we were well away from some of the cigarette vending machines when they were opened to collect the take. A Canadian two-bit piece worked just as well as an American one in the machines.

(Short of dollar funds in Honolulu last year, we found a New Zealand shilling, worth 17 cents, was a perfect substitute for a quarter in any of the slot machines.)

It was a pleasant change to arrive back in Canada last week. An American dollar bill, proffered anywhere between Montreal and Victoria, always brought the same response: "There's a three-cent discount on American money." But at least they were pleasant about it.

Soil Block Machine Fills Long-Felt Need

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Ever since the close of the Second World War there has been an endless procession of new gimmicks and gadgets appear on the market to assist the modern gardener. Some of these have been mere catch-penny devices, more distinguished by their novelty than their usefulness, while a few have supplied a really long-felt need.

Probably the most outstanding of these in recent years is the soil block machine. This is a simple press, used for producing blocks of compressed soil as a substitute for the clay flower pot. These soil blocks are used for starting plants such as tomatoes, cabbages, cauliflowers, celery, and bedding out plants, and when the time comes for planting out, the whole block, complete with its growing plant, is simply set into the soil and watered in.

MANY ADVANTAGES

With all such quick-growing plants, the soil block has many advantages over the clay pot. With flower pots, the roots penetrate quickly through the mass of soil, and tend thereafter to grow around the inside of the pot in masses. If the plant is allowed to dry out even slightly, many of these primary roots become injured and die, causing a serious check to the plant growth.

With soil blocks, this never occurs, as the roots penetrate to the outer surface of the block and remain there, just visible. These plants can never lose their primary roots, and with no shock or disturbance in transplanting to their permanent quarters outdoors, they grow away rapidly without the least set-back.

There are several types of soil block machines on the market, forming blocks either square or octagonal in shape, so they may be stacked in a seed tray or shallow box neatly and compactly. The machine makes a little depression or hole in the top of the block, and in practice, this hole is filled with light, sandy soil in which the seed is sown.

To get the best results, the soil for the blocks should be rather fibrous loam, slightly wetter than the usual potting soil. I like to mix a fair quantity of dry, shredded cow manure with it, as I believe it helps to bind the block together, as well as providing food for the young plant.

A few trials will soon show whether the mixture is right, and the completed blocks should be set out on boards or in seed trays to harden for 24 hours before using them.

STILL EXPENSIVE

The patented soil block machines are still a bit expensive for the gardener who may only require a few dozen blocks, but for the man who is handy with tools, it isn't a difficult job to build a simple mould in which soil can be hammered down or compressed into soil blocks. One mechanically-minded friend of mine has built himself an excellent soil block machine out of an old automotive cylinder and piston.

Case of Imprisoned Pole Brought Before Commons

BY TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — The case of Richard Nowalinski, Polish seaman, was brought to the floor of the House of Commons yesterday by Major-General G. R. Pearkes, VC, Member for Esquimalt-Saanich.

General Pearkes moved a motion for the production by the government of documents. The motion was carried.

It calls for a copy of "all letters, telegrams and other documents from July 11, 1953, to date, connected with the arrest, internment and deportation of one, Richard Nowalinski, a Polish seaman who left his ship at a British Columbia port during the summer of 1953." Nowalinski is now on the high seas.

The Daily Colonist first broke the story of the unfortunate Pole who had spent five months in a small cell atop the immigration department building in Vancouver after trying to escape Communism.

Shortly after the story was released immigration officials shipped him out on the Panamanian freighter Calygera from Port Alberni.

A free concert of recorded music will be held in the music room of the Victoria Public Library, Friday evening at 8 p.m. The program will include works of Bach, Chopin, Lalo and Dvorak.

Mail Floods In to Judge

Liquor Views Split Sharply When Readers Speak Minds

MILK FOR ME

Dear Judge,

Personally, I can't see the merit of liquor with meals, the nasty stuff will almost drown out the taste of the food, and the cost will be prohibitive. Pity the poor waiter who take their girl friends to such places, they'd better put in for a raise in pay to meet the extra cost unless they are plutocrats.

Just a glass of milk for me, please, easier on the ulcers, urp.

PINK ELEPHANT.

Ah, friend, your ulcers pain me! But don't worry about the swains. Their girl friends seem a prohibitive cost until after marriage, when hubby finds out what real expense is.)

NICEST MORGUE

Dear Judge,

Very bad! This new liquor system.

In the night clubs, bottles will appear on tables, instead of hiding quietly below. (Shouldn't all dignified drinking be done under the table?)

Tourists will disapprove if restaurant meals lose their dullness.

When a slice of B.C. salmon is served with Sauterne it's a dish fit for a King!

"A meal without wine, is like a day without sunshine." And who needs sunshine? California, maybe? Not us.

Let's all support the opposition, cultivate our gardens and proudly show our visitors something they will always remember with joy:

The nicest, prettiest morgue this end of the Pacific.

FROM SUNNY FRANCE.

EXAMPLE URGED

Dear Judge,

I think its our duty to stand up for our principles. . . . Many say they can take it or leave it. Let them set a good example to the weaker ones, who have not the will power to resist, and vote no liquor.

MRS. W. WARD,
3351 Cedar Hill Road.

(Certainly the Judge is in favor of everybody standing up for their principles.)

YOUTHFUL OPINION

Dear Judge,

I'm 18 and would like to voice my opinion. . . .

Most parents disagree with the thoughts of open liquor rights because they feel it will encourage us, the teenagers to drink more. I object. The average teenager doesn't like the taste of liquor, but they get a thrill out of the after-effects, such as being able to say, "Ah, I fooled the bartender again into believing I'm over 21."

So you see if liquor was easy to get, many teenagers as well as adults would not want it. Because isn't this old saying true—"What you want the most is what you can't have."

MISS EVELYN LAYER,
527 Millstone Avenue,
Nanaimo.

PUBLIC DESIRE

Dear Judge,

This act is designed by a public desire and need of a middle path . . . It offers its citizens an opportunity to purchase and consume alcoholic beverages under a pleasant atmosphere of social intercourse and companionship commensurate with good manners and good behavior with the maximum of freedom of choice and the minimum of bureaucratic and police regimentation.

WET AND DRY

(Some zealots will maintain you are all "wet" while extremists will think you are too "dry." But, then, you can't please everyone.)

ACADEMIC CURIOSITY

Dear Judge,

Once, in purely academic curiosity, I visited several "outlets" in New York. The premises were most attractive, usually busy, yet I saw only one drunk in a week. It will work here, too . . . safeguards will prevent abuses. . . .

LEONARD HART,
182 Beach Drive.

(When the bars do open, I must remember my "academic curiosity" in explaining my actions to Mrs. Judge.)

HUMAN NATURE

Dear Judge,

Remember the thrill and excitement of swiping a few apples from an orchard on the way from school? I got over it by filling my pockets at home.

Human nature changes little and a similar cure would be equally effective upon today's bootlegging, black markets and cigarette traffic. People don't bother about, nor abuse, most of the things they can get for practically nothing. A Free Spirit!

W. A. C. HOLLAND,
Duncan.

(The Judge is for free spirits, too. It would put me in high spirits!)

POPULAR SONGS

Dear Judge?

The popular song writers will need some new titles:

The face on the broadloom floor . . . I don't want a rum and cola romance . . . Every time I tried to go out the swinging door, it swung me in again . . . Here's to the pals who put Social back into the bars again . . . Give them Credit we ain't got it anymore . . .

MRS. JEAN REID,
2617 Estevan.

(Did you get that Social Credit in there? That's all for today, folks. See you tomorrow with more letters and another winner.

THE JUDGE.)

Butter, Cheese Now Unrationed

LONDON (Reuters)—Britons came within sight of the end of food rationing Monday with announcement that butter, cheese and shortening will be off the coupon list May 8. This leaves only fresh meat and bacon still rationed. Dr. Charles Hill, parliamentary secretary to the minister of food, said he hoped to announce shortly the date for the end of meat rationing.

Prices for Grade A Eggs Increase Two Cents Dozen

There was news of a price jump on eggs yesterday. Egg prices changed two cents a dozen on all Grade A sizes, placing prices to producers at A large, 42; A medium, 40; and A small 38; and to wholesalers, large, 51-53; medium, 49-51; and small, 47-49.

The pound of butter remained unchanged at 65 cents, wholesale.

GOOD SUPPLY

Fresh fruits and vegetables continue in good supply without major price variations. Island-grown potatoes, however, are retailing about 2.2 cents a pound, slightly more than $2 a hundredweight.

Okanagan Valley Newtown and Rome Beauty apples are in supply, larger sizes are more economical purchases than smaller grades.

Fraser Valley rhubarb retails at about 20 cents a pound. Onions also continue cheap, wholesalers said, from 6-7 cents a pound retail, while wax turnips sell at about 10 cents a pound.

Also in supply are Florida grapefruit, celery, California navel oranges, bananas and other supplies.

Mr. and Mrs. Cozens, on their return home from Nanaimo, found their kitchen filled with smoke and fire burning in the wall back of the stove.

Mr. Cozens called Chief Millard by telephone asking for assistance. Only able to quickly locate there other men, Stan Best, Ken Hatton and Don Grayson, they took No. 2 truck and on arrival found the fire had gone up the joist into the attic.

The fire was eventually extinguished with the use of the high pressure fog.

Fired Library Man To Appeal Action

A 34-year-old Victoria Public Library employee, fired by the board because of alleged pro-Communist leanings, will appeal the decision.

John M. Marshall was notified yesterday by letter that the Victoria Library Board had decided his services would no longer be required.

Mr. Marshall has been with the public library two months. He was hired to organize and operate the new bookmobile for outlying library service.

While no reason was given in the letter for the board's decision, nor would board chairman J. F. K. English give any, one member told the Colonist the alleged Communist affiliation "was certainly the reason."

Mr. Marshall said yesterday he would ask the board for a hearing.

"There has been no question of my competence or ability to perform the duties for which I was hired," he said.

NO RECOURSE

Mr. Marshall, who holds a Bachelor of Library Science Degree (with honors) from the University of Toronto, said he had no recourse but to ask for a hearing in view of the lack of reasons in the letter.

Mr. English said the board was not required to give reasons as Mr. Marshall's probationary period was not up until February 28. He will be given a month's pay in lieu of notice and dismissed February 1.

One source stated that "a group of public spirited citizens" had tipped the board off to Mr. Marshall's past association with allegedly pro-Communist organizations.

Mr. Marshall did not deny that he has been assistant editor of the Westerner, a left-wing Winnipeg newspaper, and attended the Canadian Peace Congress in Toronto in 1949, 1950 and 1951. He also worked as educational director of the People's Co-op in Winnipeg in 1947. He says he has never been a card-carrying member of the Labor-Progressive Party.

"I feel that I am being victimized for my private beliefs, which are my own affair, and because of my past associations," he said.

Although board officials did not disclose name of the group of "public spirited citizens" which gave them the information about Mr. Marshall, an informed source says it was the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

ACTION BATTED

"If this is true," Mr. Marshall said late yesterday, "I feel that groups or individuals which carry on secret investigations into a man's beliefs and past associations, and put pressure on his employers to fire a fully-qualified employee without giving him the opportunity to defend himself, are undermining our democratic freedoms."

A member of the board expressed satisfaction yesterday that the matter had been "brought into the open."

"If they are labelled, they are useless to the party," the member said. "We should be always on the watch for them."

League Presents Awards

Philip Ney and Robert Balfour, both of Victoria, were presented with Navy League of Canada scholarship certificates to Victoria College at the weekly parade of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Rainbow" last Friday.

Capt. F. G. Hart, retired, president of the Vancouver Island Division of the Navy League, presented the certificates.

Mr. Ney is living with his parents at 2756 Thompson Avenue, while Mr. Balfour is the son of Commander and Mrs. G. Balfour, 607 Signal Hill, Esquimalt.

Donald M. Coulter, winner of a scholarship to the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, was unable to attend the parade to receive his certificate.

Twice-Crashed Novelist Joshes Wife About Snores

ENTEBBE, Uganda (UP)—Ernest Hemingway arrived in Entebbe Monday clutching a bunch of bananas and a bottle of gin after surviving two plane crashes in the elephant country of Uganda.

His head was bandaged and his arm was injured but the celebrated American author was in good spirits. Asked about his luck, he quipped: "I think she is running very good."

With him was his wife, Mary. She had two cracked ribs and was limping as the 55-year-old Hemingway helped her tenderly from an automobile that brought them here from Butiaba, 170 miles away.

Although he declined an offer to fly out of the jungles right after his second crash Sunday, Hemingway said with a grin that he'll continue the trip as soon as he finds another plane.

Waving a swollen arm wrapped in a torn shirt, he joshed his wife, saying her snoring attracted elephants as they camped overnight near the wreckage of the first plane.

"We held our breaths about two hours while an elephant with his head and shoulder and suffered head cuts and slight burns. His wife and the other occupants left through the front of the plane and were not burned.

Mrs. Hemingway's ribs apparently were cracked when the plane swerved off the runway and into a plantation be-

Hemingway and his wife are on a five-month trip, through East Africa.

The author said the first crackup was caused when the sightseeing plane dived to avoid a flight of ibises.

"I replied, 'So has that elephant'."

The first crackup occurred Saturday when the Hemingways were flying in a chartered sightseeing plane near Murchison Falls, noted Uganda beauty spot.

After spending a night by the river they and their pilot were taken by launch to Butiaba, 30 miles away on Lake Albert.

Hemingway said he was "very impressed" at the quantity of big game there, but he did not see why it should all gather around his camp.

The second crackup came there when another plane failed to negotiate a takeoff. One wing broke into flames.

Republican Chiefs Labor To Heal Constitution Rift

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Republican leaders are desperately seeking some compromise to avert a party fight and a basic rift between the White House and Congress over President Eisenhower's treaty-making powers.

The battleground was set by the introduction in the Senate of a constitutional amendment by Senator John Bricker (R., Ohio) which would restrict presidential powers in negotiating treaties with other nations.

The controversial amendment, strongly backed by the Republican isolationist forces but strenuously opposed by Eisenhower, is scheduled to come up for Senate debate Tuesday or Wednesday. But in the meantime, the Republican leadership in Congress is trying to find some way of bridging the diametrically opposed positions.

Eisenhower has let it be known that he is prepared to fight the amendment with all his power as he considers it completely unacceptable and a dangerous attack on the constitution's treaty-making provisions in its present form.

Senator Bricker announced that he will continue to press for Congressional approval of his amendment "as is."

The controversy revolves around what is known as the "which clause", in the Bricker amendment, reading: "A treaty shall become effective as international law in the United States only through legislation which would be valid in the absence of a treaty."

Under constitutional law, treaties made by the president become the supreme law of the land, applying to all states, after ratification by a two-thirds vote in the Senate.

The administration's case is that the "which clause" would give the House of Representatives and various state legislatures a latent veto power over certain treaties, since they could decline to adopt the necessary implementing legislation.

Eisenhower is understood to feel that the Bricker amendment, as now worded, would put a straitjacket on his constitutional authority and affect the willingness of other nations to negotiate treaties in the United States.

Soviets Believed Unable to Fill China's Industrial Tool Needs

LONDON (AP)—The Kremlin has told Peiping that Soviet industry cannot fulfill all Red China's demands for vital tools and machinery, Western diplomats report. The Russian action has dealt a sharp blow to Mao Tse-tung's five-year plan.

The Chinese trade mission now dickering in Moscow was said to have been informed that Russian factories are too hard-pressed with home demands to meet many of Peiping's orders. These responsible sources think another factor may be that Mao just can't pay the bill for any substantial increase in Soviet exports.

The Russians have dodged making big loans to their Chinese allies, and Peiping has been compelled to barter agricultural products for Soviet machinery, trucks and building equipment.

Hedging on the payment question, the Kremlin is believed to have made its excuses for holding down on deliveries on the basis of these factors:

Soviet plants have been going full blast to satisfy the vast needs of the armed forces and the program for industrial expansion. Now on top of this, Premier Georgi Malenkov has called for a huge output of consumer goods such as radios, shoes and sewing machines. As a result, nothing much is left over for export beyond the production already earmarked for Red China.

If these reports are true — and they are based on the best information available to the West—Mao will be compelled to cut drastically his scheme to industrialize Red China at high speed.

The rebuff from the Kremlin may force Mao to approach the West for industrial equipment now embargoed as strategic. But even if the trade bans are lifted, experts here believe Red China's critical shortage of foreign exchange will make her a poor market for Western business men.

Stalled Truck Delivery Room

SEVEN SISTERS FALLS, Man. (CP) — A 6½-pound girl was born to Mrs. David Wolgemuth of Seven Sisters Falls in a truck during bitter cold Saturday.

Mr. Wolgemuth, who works in a nearby lumber camp, had arranged to take his wife to hospital at Ste. Anne Sunday. But circumstances forced him to leave in his truck Saturday, and the baby was born on the way.

Mr. Wolgemuth, 27, acted as midwife, then had to shovel a path for the truck, which became stuck several times as he struggled to continue the journey.

First-aid was given Mrs. Wolgemuth at a nearby farm home. Both mother and baby are reported doing well in hospital at Whitemouth, Man.

Job Picture Worst Since 30s Says CCF

OTTAWA (BUP) — More Canadians are out of work "for this time of the year" than since depression days of the 1930's, CCF party headquarters said Monday.

"Already Canada's unemployment is almost three times that of the United States in proportion to the labor force and nearly five times that in Britain," said a statement drafted at a week-end meeting of the CCF national executive.

"The government's own figures show that as early as December 10 the number looking for jobs had reached 338,000," the party said. "Each day thousands more Canadian workers are being laid off, swelling the unemployment total, now at the highest point for this time of the year since before the war."

"The recession is already here."

Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday that the government is taking no special steps to meet the present unemployment situation.

He informed Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre) that employment agencies across the country are "increasing their endeavors" to place people in jobs but the government is taking no further steps.

Undersecretary of State Hume Wrong Dies at 59

OTTAWA (CP)—The undersecretary of state for external affairs and former ambassador to the United States, H. Hume Wrong, died here Sunday at 59 of a heart ailment.

External Affairs Minister Pearson, a close friend of Canada's second highest foreign affairs officer, described Mr. Wrong as "the finest type of public servant" and said, "No man has made a greater contribution to the building up of Canada's foreign service or to the wise administration of Canada's foreign policies."

Prime Minister St. Laurent said, "Canada has lost a great public servant" and he has lost "a good friend and wise counsellor."

Mr. Wrong, a familiar figure to most international diplomats from his service on Canadian delegations to wartime and post-war conferences, spent more than half his almost 27 years with the diplomatic service in Washington.

Mr. Wrong, a native of Toronto, became ambassador to the United States in 1946.

Last July, Mr. Wrong was appointed undersecretary, assuming his new post November 1. Two weeks later a heart attack sent him to hospital. He appeared to be making a good recovery, but suffered a second attack Saturday.

Wire Makers Face Charges Over Prices

OTTAWA (CP)—The government decided to launch court prosecutions in connection with an alleged 41-year price-fixing combine in Canada's $124,000,000 electrical wire and cable manufacturing industry, Justice Minister Garson announced Monday.

Firms involved, all in Eastern Canada, make 93 per cent of Canada's electrical wire and cable.

Ottawa, Provinces Talk Disability Aid

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal and provincial welfare officials gathered here Monday to discuss Ottawa's proposal for jointly financed allowances to the totally disabled and to overhaul regulations on old-age and blind pensions.

Main interest in the three-day meeting, attended by ministers and deputies in charge of welfare, centres on the plan for helping the permanently disabled.

Under the plan, the federal government hopes the provinces will join it in providing allowances to the helpless.

The government here is understood to be considering allowances of $40 a month to such persons, to be paid 50-50 from federal and provincial treasuries. A means test would be involved.

Preliminary estimates indicate around 25,000 persons would draw pensions under the plan, the total depending on the terms under which allowances are granted. Over-all cost would run about $12,000,000 a year.

Somewhat similar plans are now being operated by the governments of Ontario, Alberta and Newfoundland. Ontario and Alberta pay $40 a month and Newfoundland $25.

Oddities

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police Sgt. Robert Troyan did a job backwards Monday, but was successful all the same.

Troyan, trying to drive to a minor fire, met a car driven by Harry Holp, 36, in the middle of a street.

The sergeant backed up to let Holp pass, but Holp simply drove his car up bumper-to-bumper again. This performance was repeated several times until they reached the police station, where Holp was arrested for drunken driving.

MILDURA, Australia (Reuters) — Chemicals used to purify the water at the public swimming pool here caused the hair of all blondes to turn green—and stay like that for days. The coloring would not wash out but gradually disappeared.

OLDHAM, England (Reuters) — Persons living near a bus stop outside the Oldham rugby stadium have asked that the stop be moved, because of the bad language they hear when the local team loses.

Oldham has lost only three of 13 games this season, "but the swearing has been very bad each time," said one resident.

If You've Never Used MILK OF MAGNESIA

you owe it to yourself and family to read this!

Medical Facts Prove No Ordinary Laxative In The World Gives Such Complete Relief As MILK OF MAGNESIA!

Milk of Magnesia is more than a laxative! That's why it does more for you—brings you better relief.

It's an established medical fact that when you're suffering from constipation, acid indigestion is frequently present, too. Yes—acid indigestion—a condition that requires relief, but which no simple laxative can even begin to relieve.

What Is A Laxative?

As your own doctor can tell you, a laxative is a mild cathartic used to cleanse the system of wastes.

Now, note that a laxative is not an antacid. It's simply a mild cathartic. And that's why it has no effect whatever on acidity . . . why it brings you only partial relief when taken for constipation and accompanying acid indigestion.

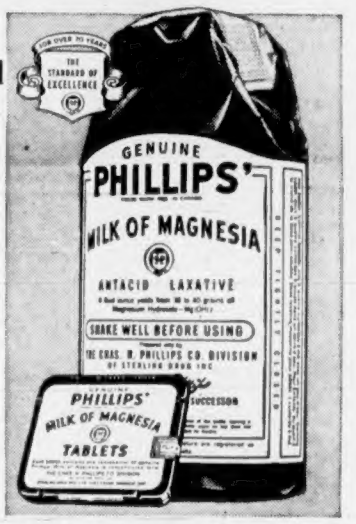
But there's no need for you to be satisfied with partial relief. For Milk of Magnesia gives you better relief—more complete relief—than any ordinary laxative.

Why Milk of Magnesia Is Better!

Milk of Magnesia does more for you because it's more than a laxative. It's an antacid, too. As a result, it not only relieves constipation, but accompanying acid indigestion as well.

Yes—and Milk of Magnesia also gives you wonderfully gentle relief. And it can be taken without fear of embarrassing urgency, because it works leisurely. When necessary, take two to four tablespoonfuls with water at bedtime. After a good night's sleep, you'll wake up the next morning to the kind of relief that will help you start your day feeling fine.

When you buy, ask for Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It's the best laxative-antacid money can buy.



So Gentle For Children,..So Thorough For Grownups

PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA

You Can't Win

NOW that the Dominion government intends to introduce nickel postage with the advent of spring, Canadians may want to take a closer look at one of the pre-election gifts they received last year, which turns out to be a prize example of Indian giving.

Since the announcement that the postage rate would go up one cent at the end of this fiscal year, various reasons have been given as to why the post office department needs more revenue. Prominent among them is the statement that by discontinuing the stamp tax on cheques just before the last election the government reduced the post office's income by $7,500,000 a year, because most people used to affix ordinary postage stamps to cheques instead of the excise stamps which yielded revenue to a different department. The public is informed now that if the postal service is to "break even" it must get that $7,500,000 in some other way; so up goes the postage rate.

The stamp tax on cheques was a niggling inconvenience, and the government won universal approval when it announced that the tax would be abolished. Now it transpires that all the cheque-writers got rid of was the nuisance. For those who are heavy users of the mails, the extra cent on each of the pieces they send out is likely to add up over the year to a sum much larger than whatever savings they have received on cheques. Caught with them also in this reshuffle of revenue sources will be all those people who do not use the cheque system, got no relief from the abolition of the stamp tax, but soon must pay five cents instead of four on everything they send through the mails.

Another Look Is in Order

THE projected B.C. Electric cable from the mainland to Vancouver Island, to provide a substantial new source of electric power, should cause the Buttle Lake dam project to be critically reviewed. The public at least will have to be shown that there is justification now for the despoliation of this favored tract of Strathcona Park. The undersea cable suggests an entirely new method by which the power situation on Vancouver Island may be materially altered. It behooves the government to explore this fresh development before irreparable damage is done in the Buttle Lake area.

With what seems rather a precipitate announcement Premier Bennett has said the trans-strait cable will not affect the power commission's hydro-electric plans for Vancouver Island, but one trusts the government will take second thought on the subject. Precipitate action unfortunately has marked the Buttle Lake dam project from the beginning, and in James Bay under successive governments there seems to have been a determination to ram this undertaking through come what may.

The whole business is the more astonishing when it is remembered that the power commission does not yet know whether or not the building of a dam at Buttle Lake is feasible. Some engineering experts have testified that it is not, and that the porous ground at the site dooms the dam to failure. Nowhere else in the world, surely, can a government have authorized so intense a pursuit of a project before first making sure it was physically possible.

It is not surprising therefore that Buttle Lake has been cause for much public wonder. The proposed undersea B.C. Electric cable might well change the picture, however, and the Bennett administration can scarcely afford to ignore its implications. It is inconceivable that a fresh review of the situation should not now take place.

Loss to Canada

THE death of Mr. H. Hume Wrong, under-secretary of state and former Canadian ambassador to Washington, D.C., at Ottawa on Sunday is a serious loss to the diplomatic service of this country. Active for more than 27 years in the external affairs division, Mr. Wrong was one of the most brilliant of Canada's comparatively young diplomatic corps. He was leading the civil service contingent that represented Canada at the formation of the United Nations organization at San Francisco in 1945. The succeeding year he became Canadian ambassador to the United States, where he rose rapidly in the esteem of that country.

Quiet and unassuming in manner, Mr. Wrong attained to an international reputation in the diplomatic service through his great ability and his transcendent capacity for taking pains. He was a leading representative of the corps of external relations officials in this country who grew up under his leadership and with the benefit of his example. He had many friends, and even in the difficult field of international relations few, if any, enemies. His death through heart failure while still in the prime of his life is a severe blow. Few men have given more of themselves in the interests of this nation than the late Mr. Wrong.

B.C. HIGHWAY CONTRACTS

Sir,—May I be permitted space in your paper to endorse the request of Mr. Arthur Laing for a complete investigation into all highway work done under the Coalition and Liberal Governments during the time I was Premier, and all contracts let by the Social Credit Government since they took office. Personally, I would welcome such an enquiry in view of the statements which are coming from the Premier's office.

In an editorial which appeared in your paper on Saturday, January 23, under the heading, "This should be investigated," you state, "that the Liberals paid $2.25 a lineal foot for 24-inch corrugated pipe which the Social Credit Government bought for the second section of highway at 90 cents."

The only meaning one can take from this statement is that 24-inch corrugated pipe is being bought by the present government at 90 cents a lineal foot. If that is the meaning you intend to convey then I challenge the Premier to produce an invoice showing where the "Socred" Government has purchased 24-inch pipe at 90 cents a lineal foot during the time his government has been in office. This is a very simple way to answer the statement in your editorial.

BYRON I. JOHNSON.
2895 Beach Drive, Victoria, B.C.

Editor's Note: The editorial comment to which Mr. Johnson refers was based on an unsolicited statement by Premier Bennett at a press conference last week. Mr. Bennett's figures were presented in such a way as to lead to one conclusion: that the prices he quoted with reference to corrugated pipe represented the prices of the materials only. If, as has since been discovered, the figures related to installation of pipe, which is an altogether different matter, the Premier neglected to say so.

CHECKING CREDENTIALS

Sir,—I was rather surprised the Chamber of Commerce used the method they did to warn the public against what they termed a "television racket" being carried on in the city. Yet when one phoned about this, even after being asked for one's name and address, they said they could not divulge the names of any suspected firms unless one had some specific complaint to make.

This warning will just arouse suspicion towards any well-meaning salesman of only one particular product, whereas if the Chamber of Commerce had advised the careful reading of any paper to be signed in connection with any transaction I think they would have done the public a greater kindness. Instead, their well-meaning desire to protect some people perhaps may have the effect of hurting others.

I also hope Victoria is big enough in its vision to welcome any new companies which come here, realizing they all help to place Victoria more prominently on the map, whereby we may all benefit in the future.

PIONEERING DAYS

Sir,—My wife and I have read with especial interest Mr. Nesbitt's "Old Homes and Families" article on T. N. Hibben and Company, as that was the regular rendezvous for friends. "Shall we meet at Hibben's?" and "I will leave the book for you at Hibben's," and so on, were the daily messages.

It was rather dark at the far end of the store, and there was no one there except "old" Kammerer, and he was very shortsighted. By the way, there were only three syllables in his name. As I write, I can see him before me—short, about five feet, four inches, and broad and round face, grey hair, slow in movement, quiet in manner, wearing large, round spectacles. He was the bookkeeper.

The store was never in the Five Sisters Building, which was at the corner of Fort and Government—subsequently burned down to the ground. Hibben's must have been where View Street and Government Street are, when View was put through. When the firm crossed the street to the building now occupied by the Canada Trust and the Churchill Hotel their building was called Hibben Bone Building.

My memory only goes back to about 1890. All these articles are most interesting.

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

THERE are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio . . . and indeed there are. Four-minute milers, for instance.

None are extant at the moment, but one or two runners are nearing the tape. Only a beggarly 1.4 seconds stands in the way.

According to Dr. Phil Edwards the four-minute mile is medically impossible — yet he believes it possible. He is a dual expert is Edwards, being a DVA head doctor and a former scintillating star of the cinder track. Thus he should know whereof he speaks.

In terms of physiology and biochemistry, says the doctor, no one can run a mile in four minutes. But, he adds, there's the human element to consider.

This is where Horatio comes in.

There are things above and beyond medical and every other science. More than one doctor has in his case book, I suppose, the patient who rose and walked when by all the theories of science and medicine he should have been frozen to his bed.

One there was who told me of such an experience. It couldn't be, he said in awe, but it was.

* * *

Proper training and conditioning of the body, believes Dr. Edwards, would produce the four-minute miler. But that doesn't explain all the human element; it leaves out a factor predominant time and again on and off the sporting field—the human spirit.

A mysterious alchemy this, which cannot be measured by rule or calculus, but one which when it erupts in splendor can make light of miracles.

At first glance the miracle of the four-minute mile appears to be round the corner. One man has run the distance in four minutes 1.4 seconds; another has four minutes 1.6 seconds to his credit; yet another did it in an even four minutes two seconds. One or two others are only a few more seconds off the pace.

* * *

Yet these times have been squeezed out agonisingly over the years. It seems almost as though a biological barrier that can't be breached builds up in front of the four-mile tape. For, peculiarly, these men who have come so near and yet have failed are of different race, of different climes, of different habits and resources.

And they ran in different parts of the globe.

There is obviously a basic common denominator of the cinder track.

In a length of 1760 yards the overage of two seconds represents but a few, very few, extra thrusts of the legs, enough only to cover in total about seven yards. Absorbed over the distance of a mile that much slack, one would think, could easily be taken care of.

That so far it hasn't bears out the medical theories quoted by Dr. Edwards.

But, as the doctor says, there is the human element. Runners cannot go on for ever lowering records, that is true; there must be an absolute limit somewhere, physiological or spiritual. I don't think the milers have reached it, however.

One of these days some chap is going to flee the mile like the wind, with proper conditioning and training maybe but assuredly also with spirit afire and leaping ahead in a supreme moment of exaltation.

And then he will cracle through that biological barrier as though it were paper—and in four minutes flat.

Reports from Ottawa

AT A rough guess it will cost about $100,000,000 to enable our soldiers to fire bullets twice as fast as they've been able to fire them in Korea.

Against the background of the costs of total war, that sum is almost trifling. Considered as a peacetime expenditure it's quite substantial. And it must be the latter, because the start of an atomic war would leave no time to provide the troops with the semi-automatic rifles they would need immediately.

The Germans and the Americans had such weapons in World War II. So did the Russians. Their 1938 Romanovs and 1941 Tokarevs helped stop the Nazis at Stalingrad. Now, according to reliable U.S. sources, the Tokarev has been withdrawn from the crack Soviet guards regiments and replaced by a newer semi or full automatic rifle.

This must be assumed to be equal to the new Belgian FN rifle, with which a trained man can get off up to 40 aimed shots a minute. By comparison, a well trained soldier can fire one of our 57-year-old hand-operated Lee-Enfields only 20 times a minute.

* * *

Actually that $100,000,000, figure is a little misleading. It's my guess at the total cost, including the write-off of present stocks of rifles and ammunition. The new weapons themselves shouldn't cost nearly that much—particularly if the Belgian FN is selected.

So far as Production Minister Howe is concerned, it's axiomatic that whatever rifle the army chooses must be manufactured in Canada. Accordingly estimates of the cost of producing the FN have been prepared, and total a little more than $100 per rifle on an order for 300,000.

That's over $30,000,000 right there. Then there's the manufacture of X number of the new 7.62 mm cartridges for the FN. And upping the cost to perhaps $100,000,000 would be the write-off of our stocks of Lee-Enfields (worth about $50 each when new) and large stocks of .303 ammunition.

Much of the cost of modernizing the army's basic arm will thus be only a bookkeeping entry. Present rifles and ammunition are paid for, and doubtless would be given to poorer, NATO countries. Defense Minister Claxton doesn't need a vote of Parliament to write them off—only money with which to replace them with the FN and the new .30 cal. ammunition.

* * *

It isn't definite, of course, that the army will adopt the FN. That still hinges on field trials in the next year. But assuming the FN doesn't disappoint us, and also that none of our allies comes up with a better weapon in the meantime, the FN is certain to replace the venerable .303.

Right now there's nothing better in sight. The complex British EM-2, which would cost much more than $100 to manufacture in Canada, is no longer considered. The Americans' .30 cal. T-44, really an improved Garand, cannot match the beautiful simplicity of the FN's mechanism—an important factor militarily as well as cost-wise.

Small arms experts of the U.S., Britain, Canada, France and Belgium, who will meet here next week to work out technical details of the NATO agreement to adopt a standard .30 cal. cartridge, will be talking informally about rifles. My information is that if a straw poll were taken they would vote unanimously for the FN, with even the Americans favoring it over their own T-44.

Reducing Surpluses

(From The Christian Science Monitor)

SECRETARY Benson has just pointed out most pertinently that the cattlemen have met their acute surplus problem very effectively. The drop in meat prices stimulated consumption. The cattle growers, without any price supports, are now obtaining better prices and expecting more stable conditions.

Mr. Benson urged that this is a good example of the free market operating smoothly to correct an unbalanced situation. It may be objected that some cattlemen were squeezed hard in the process. And it is true that in such a commodity as wheat a cut in prices might not remove the surpluses so readily.

However, the general rule of Mr. Benson's logic is sound. For lower prices would surely deter some growers and tend to reverse the present positive encouragement of surpluses in the basic crops by rigid price supports. We are convinced that most farmers would prefer to produce for use rather than for federal storage. They see that the business of piling surpluses on surpluses cannot go on. They are reluctant to have their income cut even temporarily, but they know the government cannot continue to prop them up indefinitely.

We do not believe the bulk of American farmers want this, despite the attitude of some congressmen from farm states. President Eisenhower and Mr. Benson are proposing flexible price supports—which would still leave a good floor under farmers but would begin to reduce surpluses. Can those who oppose this plan seriously contend that the surpluses can be allowed to pile up? If not, they have an obligation to offer better ways of reducing them. Unless they do they are misleading the farmers they claim to represent.

Under the Clock

By RAY BAINES
City Hall Reporter

TUCKED away at the bottom of the public works committee agenda last week was an amendment to the building by-law requiring all new homes in the city to be equipped with indoor plumbing.

The committee, with routine straight faces, passed the amendment casually.

It requires that homes be not less than 750 square feet in area and "be equipped with at least one water closet, one hand basin, one sink and one bathtub or shower."

A small Colonist news story labeled the story "The Age of Progress Department." Even in a country with one of the world's highest standards of living there is something slightly amusing about legislated cleanliness.

We wondered what would happen if a homeowner wanted to make a test case of this law. Could he argue that he didn't want, or need, a bathtub, that he preferred to go dirty? Could he prove that he sent out all his laundry and ate in restaurants and therefore needed no sink? He may have no argument regarding the other fixture. The only alternative is contrary to public health laws.

Of course the by-law doesn't say the sink, bathtub or other fixtures need to be connected to any water supply.

If the law is going to concern itself about our cleanliness, what about our warmth, rest and sustenance? Future city councils may find themselves passing by-laws requiring that new homes be equipped with stoves, furnaces, beds and easy chairs. From this perhaps recreation might fall under the category of required home equipment. All new homes would then have to have TV sets, card tables and fully-stocked book-shelves, gymnasiums and swimming pools.

There would be no such thing as an unfurnished home—or a cheap one.

We don't want to go back to the tub on the kitchen floor and the little shack out in the backyard, although plenty of stalwart citizens managed to survive these primitive conditions.

But in our anxiety to legislate a higher standard of living, let's not forget the happy citizen who prizes his unwashed freedom.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

MOST of us are conquered by the telephone. We are its obedient servants. On its first ring, we start for it, obsequious as any slave. We hope to reach it before it finishes its second ring. If it rings the third time before we get there, we are slightly panicked for fear the caller will have hung up. At the very least, if we let it ring the fourth time, we will expect the party at the far end to be justifiably a little miffed.

But it isn't everybody who accepts this servility to the telephone. I know a lady who, if she is upstairs when her phone rings, or if she is busy in the midst of dish washing or mixing a cake in the kitchen, just pays no attention and lets the thing ring until it stops.

"Well, aren't you a little curious," I protested, "to know who was calling?"

"No," she says calmly. "If it is important, they'll call again."

One of my fellow journalists spends his entire working day bullied, jostled chivvied around by the telephone. Over the years, he has developed a genuine hatred of the instrument. Naturally in his off-hours, he is pursued by people wanting to talk news or shop with him. So he has adopted a scheme whereby he lets the telephone at home ring 10 times before he answers. His fellow editors and personal friends know this, and always count 10 when they call him. It is a little awkward for his wife; but her friends know the secret too. In its way, this system is almost as good as having an unlisted number.

But this is an eager and tirelessly inquisitive age in which we are living. The telephone preys upon our curiosity. And the funniest sight in the world is a tycoon at his desk, a tycoon worth millions, whose desk supports five telephones. And he sits there, like a goalie in the National Hockey League when the pressure is on, trying to answer them all.

Car Gadget Feeds Sand To Wheels

A few more slippery days won't bother Norton Adamson, 136 Government Street. He has beaten winter driving hazards by installing a gadget in his car.

The gadget, hidden in the trunk compartment, feeds fine gravel to the back wheels to give them a grip on slippery surfaces. Mr. Adamson reports it works perfectly.

"But I got an ultimatum from my wife—no more gadgets on the car," he grinned yesterday. His car, he said, is loaded with gimmicks.

JUST ONE MORE

But in spite of the ultimatum, Mr. Adamson is considering one more gadget. He and his wife are planning a motor trip to Mexico, and he would like to install a cooler in the car.

"I think my wife would appreciate that, in those southern temperatures," the gadgeteer said hopefully.

Sawchuk Foils Leafs Again

One of the highlights of the National Hockey League season has been the inability of Toronto Maple Leafs to score on Detroit ice. They last managed the feat near the end of last season. Leafs turned back Wings, 4-1, at Toronto Saturday, but ran into old trouble again in Detroit Sunday as goalie Terry Sawchuk blanked them 2-0. Here Sawchuk kicks out a close-in drive by Eric Nesterenko while Wings' Marty Pavelich and Bob Goldham watch from background.

BY JIM TANG

Not at all looking like the team which lost to New Westminster Royals Friday night, Victoria Cougars last night handed the league-leading Calgary Stampeders a 2-0 shutout in a Western Hockey League game played at Memorial Arena before about 4,000 fans.

It was the first defeat of their third coast trip for the Stamps, who won at Vancouver and Seattle and tied at New Westminster to take a three-point lead over Canucks, and their third defeat at the hands of the Cougars in the five games played between the two clubs so far this season. The Cougars lost one and tied the other. Victory enabled the Cougars, who have won four and tied two of their last seven games, to move into a fifth-place tie with Edmonton Flyers and eight points in front of the last-place Seattle Bombers.

There was no sign of the disorganization so obvious Friday night in the Cougars' play last night. They stuck to their checks like leeches and the high-scoring Stamps could never get an attack properly organized. On the attack, particularly in the first two periods, the Cougars moved smartly and passed well and although they missed a number of great chances, their defensive play made only one goal necessary.

BIG LINE HELD

Billy Reay assigned the job of policing the potent Jim McFadden - Frank Ashworth - Steve Black threesome to his line and with wingers Colin Kilburn and Doug Anderson checking back persistently, the Victoria trio not only did its job perfectly but found time to do some attacking of its own. It was the first time since the Cougars did it on their last Prairie trip that the Calgary line had been stopped. In the succeeding seven games, the McFadden-Ashworth-Black combination had scored 14 goals and 19 assists.

But the other Victoria lines also did their job with the Ed Dorohoy-SamBettio-Alex Kuzma line looking particularly good on the attack and scoring both Victoria goals. The defense, their task made easy by the fine checking of the wingmen, was steady and alert and in goal, Red Almas was extremely good several times and a star as he came up with his second shutout.

STREAK ENDED

The Stamps were playing their fourth game in four nights and without the services of defenseman Gus Kyle and forwards Sid Finney and Archie Scott but that detracted nothing from the Cougar win. The Stamps just couldn't get started against the sound checking and saw their undefeated streak ended at six games.

As to the play, the Cougars held an edge in the first two periods as they attacked cleverly and never let up in their checking. The only time they looked bad was when they tried to mount a power play while Stamps were shorthanded, but this was due to some great checking by Calgary penalty-killers.

TWO SMART GOALS

It took almost 18 minutes, however, before the Cougars clicked. Kuzma moved in alertly for the puck after Ross Lowe had kept play in the Calgary zone, stickhandled through in close quarters, and flipped the puck past Brennan from the edge of the crease for a smart goal.

Dorohoy, who drew an assist on the goal and now leads the scoring race by two points, got the insurance goal early in the second period on a great play, deflecting in a perfect angled pass from Bettio, who had intercepted near the Calgary blue line.

Cougars were content to play it safe in the final 20 minutes and the Stamps, although using four forwards for almost all of the last 11 minutes, couldn't break through against the steady checking of the victory-bent Islanders and the good goaling of Almas, who had to be good several times in a game where goals were at a premium.

There was little in the way of rough play although Bill Shvetz and Reg Abbott drew major penalties for a first-period fight instigated by the Calgary defenseman. The Stamps got a break on this penalty call but took exception to the refereeing of Scotty Morrison in the second period when Lowe roughed up Black several times. The Calgary bench talked it up and Morrison finally ejected trainer Stew Hendry, tossed out for the third time in five games, and then plastered a 10-minute misconduct on Coburn, who wasn't talking about baseball when he hollered "homer."

Cougars now rest until Friday, when they tangle with Edmonton Flyers, who start their third Coast tour tonight at Memorial Arena.

Edmonton Gets Boost With Stasiuk's Return

Edmonton Flyers, who came fast last season to win the Western Hockey League playdowns, will be a club to watch again this season. The Flyers have been doing rather well of late after a rocky beginning and yesterday they got quite a boost when Detroit Red Wings announced they were returning winger Vic Stasiuk.

Stasiuk and centre Earl Reibel, still with the Wings, were the big men as the Flyers drove through all opposition in a late-season rush. The big rightwinger, who got into only 48 games, compiled an outstanding point total as he scored 37 goals and assisted on 43 for 80 points. He was the most feared forward in the AHL and was second only to goalie Emil Francis in all-star voting. Francis, practically a unanimous choice in the balloting, received 118 votes. Stasiuk got 116, more than double the total for Jackie McLeod and Doug Bentley, second and third rightwing choices, respectively.

MURPHY TO QUAKERS

At the same time, New York Rangers announced that forward Ron Murphy will be sent to the Saskatoon Quakers as a replacement for Doug Bentley, who it appears, is to finish out the season in the WHL.

Murphy hit the headlines recently for his part in the famous high-sticking duel with Boom Boom Geoffrion of Montreal Canadiens. The young Ranger forward suffered a broken jaw and it was announced at the time that he was through for the season. However, he has recovered much better than expected and should be ready to see action in two or three weeks.

Lions Clear Another Hurdle— Gain Right to Arnie Weinmeister

REGINA (CP) — British Columbia Lions gained a double victory over the week end as the annual Western Interprovincial Football Union meeting wound up here Sunday.

Admitted to the league Saturday by a unanimous vote, the Lions also gained the right to Arnie Weinmeister, 30-year-old former tackle with New York Giants of the National Football League.

The giant lineman had been the centre of a storm of controversy involving the Giants and Saskatchewan Roughriders over his eligibility to sign a Lions contract.

PROPERLY SIGNED

Syd Halter, WIFU commissioner, ruled that Lions properly signed Weinmeister to a two-year contract and that Weinmeister was not on the Rider negotiation list when signed by the B.C. team as claimed by Saskatchewan.

Saskatchewan, in an angry statement Friday, threatened to block the Vancouver entry if Weinmeister was not dropped. WIFU governors refused to listen to the protest until the Lions were in the league.

Halter refused to give the date of signing in awarding Weinmeister to Lions although its almost certain he was signed during a period of two months last summer when Riders took the tackle off their negotiation list because they believed there was little chance in obtaining his services.

GIANTS MAY SUE

Still to be settled is Vancouver's dispute with Giants and the NFL, who were reported to be starting a football "war" because of the signing. Giants said they will sue their former tackle for breach of contract.

Also drawn up was a tentative schedule for 1954, which includes a three-team playoff. The schedule, which restores balance to WIFU play, has each team playing 16 games, eight of them at home. The league opens August 21, a week earlier than last year, with Edmonton at Saskatchewan and Calgary at Winnipeg. Lions received a bye and club officials will probably use the date to squeeze in an exhibition game with an eastern team.

In pre-season exhibition games, Winnipeg and Edmonton go east while Calgary, Saskatchewan and British Columbia are hosts to Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Grey Cup champions.

MAKE SUGGESTIONS

The WIFU recommended a maximum of four Canadian-American players be permitted each club and 10 imports be declared by the third game of the schedule.

Other recommendations to be presented to the Canadian Rugby Union are: Yardage penalty for roughing given the defending team during a convert play be applied at the first down after the subsequent kick-off; blocking 10 yards in advance of the line of scrimmage be permitted on running plays by team carrying ball; penalty for piling on be increased to 20 yards from 15; score for a safety touch be increased to three points from two, and amendment of CRU regulations that an unauthorized player on the field interfering with play be punished by barring player from the remainder of the game and awarding an automatic touchdown.

Finally, Cec E. Chesher of Calgary was elected president of the WIFU, succeeding Walter Sprague of Edmonton. Don McKenzie of Vancouver was named one of the five vice-presidents.

The Sportlight

BY GRANTLAND RICE

A short while ago I ran into Craig Wood, the noted citizen and golfer. I asked to start me off right in 1954 by naming the young golfer more likely to emerge from the mass and reach the top.

Without wasting too much time Craig said two words. They were "Fred Wampler."

"He is about as good a shotmaker as any of the others, and he is now experienced enough," explained Craig. "He is a very good golfer and at the age of 30, he has been around long enough."

So Fred Wampler backed up Craig Wood by winning the $20,000 Los Angeles Open, where the first prize was $4,000.

Wampler played like a real champion for the first three rounds, then skidded badly. But he won.

Craig tossed in another prophecy. "There is also a kid of 22 or 23 that you'll hear more about. He has only been a pro for six months. He's coming to New York with Harry Cooper this summer. Slender, almost slight, he's about six feet tall and has plenty of leverage. I think you'll hear from him on the winter trail. His name is Bud Holscher."

Wood made another perfect pick. In the Los Angeles Open young Holscher had rounds of 72-71-69-71 — only two shots away from the top. He played the most consistent golf in the field. Bud has a fine swing and a first-class golfing temperament. Which mean's he is cool, calm and is rarely upset. He concentrates well and is quite a determined competitor. Concentration and determination are the two main factors for winning golf. Ask Ben Hogan.

* * *

Wampler, the Purdue-Indianapolis entry, is 30 and Holscher is 22, so Bud has the edge in years. Yet Hogan was over 30 before he began leading all fields. Wampler has Ben's build and looks quite a bit like the U.S. and British champion. Whether he will play like him is a future story.

At Fox Hills he almost broke under heavy pressure, throwing 3 or 4 strokes away on successive holes down the stretch. We'll keep track of him as the hard-working caravan moves from the Pacific to the Atlantic — form California and Texas to Georgia and the Masters.

We hope they find a spot for Holscher in the Masters. He might be a big surprise. So might Wampler.

The old-timers are still playing well but most of them are reaching the end of the trail. Porky Oliver, Chick Harbert, Jerry Barber, Dutch Harrison, Lew Worsham and Julius Boros are now hitting the ball as well as ever and may be heard from more than once on this extended tour.

Harbert and Oliver, two favorites with everybody, are long and straight—two of the longest in the game. They are wearing well.

It is difficult to pick out many of the younger players as potential champions this early in the game. Doug Ford, Al Mengert and Bob Toski have started slowly. So have Jack Burke and Cary Middlecoff, who have threatened more than once, only to be caught in the tangle of inconsistency.

Walter Burkemo, RGA champ, still has a few medal-play kinks to iron from his system, but may break loose at any moment. He can be dangerous.

Anglers To Meet Tonight

Members of the Victoria Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association attending their club's annual meeting in the Monterey Restaurant at 8 tonight will hear an address by Dr. Peter Larkin, chief fisheries biologist for British Columbia.

Another expected highlight of the meeting will be a discussion of the proposed ban on the use of herring strip or similar baits by fishermen in Cowichan Bay.

Other business scheduled includes the president's report, presentation of trophies, derby reports and election of officers.

Brennan Ties Record In Blanking Bombers

Calgary Stampeders, who can look bad on occasion but more often look like the class of the Western Hockey League, extended an unbeaten streak to six games and moved three points in front of the second-place Vancouver Canucks at Seattle Sunday as they blanked the Bombers, 5-0.

Three players shared most of the glory as the Stamps continued a successful third Coast trip by getting their fourth and fifth points out of a possible six. Goalie Bill Brennan tied the league record, set last season by Lucien Dechene, by scoring his sixth shutout while Steve Black and Jim McFadden looked after the offense by splitting nine points.

THREE FOR BLACK

Black, who would undoubtedly be playing in the NHL but for an unfortunate tendency to get hurt, scored three times and set up the other two goals in a fine display. McFadden, who has been a real asset since joining the Stamps, continued his scoring splurge by getting a goal and passing for three. And Frank Ashworth, the third man on what has been the league's most potent line of late, picked up three assists.

Bombers, who remained six points out of sixth place and have only 20 games left to play, couldn't cope with the smooth passing and steady defensive play of the Calgarians. The Seattle club now has lost 11 and tied one of its last 13 games and picked up only three points in nine games in the New Year.

Armand Savoie Scores Win Against Brown

MONTREAL (CP)—Armand Savoie of Montreal pounded out a unanimous 10-round decision over Houston Brown of New York Monday night in a lightweight battle before an estimated 1,000 fans.

Savoie, making his first start since being knocked out by lightweight champion Jimmy Carter last November, pummeled Carter's top stablemate continually in chalking up the decision. Brown weighed 136½, Savoie 137¾.

The Montreal battler had Brown in trouble several times during the fight but couldn't deliver the payoff punch. He swung wildly every time Brown was hurt and trying to get away.

Mount View In Close Win

Mount View High School chalked up a 35-33 victory over St. Louis College in a senior boys' inter-school exhibition basketball game played Monday afternoon at Mount View.

Ed Longpre scored 12 points to set the scoring pace for the losers while clubmate Karen O'Neil added nine points. Glen Stewart topped the Mount View scorers with 11 points.

Gonzales Wins Over Sedgman

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pancho Gonzales broke through the service of Frank Sedgman Monday night for a 10-8 victory and $750 first prize on a one-night stand here of Jack Kramer's 1954 tournament tour.

Gonzales earlier defeated Pancho Segura, 9-7, while Sedgman was defeating the veteran Don Budge 8-6.

The loss was the 16th straight for Budge on the current tour.

England's XI Dismisses Leeward Islands Easily

ANTIGUA, Leeward Islands (CP)—The Marylebone Cricket Club retired the Leeward Islands with 38 runs in 80 minutes on Monday, the opening day of their two-day match here, and then scored 156 for six wickets in reply.

John Wardle and Jim Laker were virtually unplayable on a pitch made responsive by rain which penetrated the covers Sunday. Wardle claimed five wickets for seven runs in 9.5 overs and Laker took four for 29 in 10 overs.

Alan Moss and Trevor Bailey, the only other bowlers used, sent down five overs between them without conceding a run.

The only batsman to reach double figures was A. G. Eddy, a chemist's assistant, who made 20. He made several good hits, including three which earned boundaries off Laker.

Len Hutton, fifth out at 146, scored 82 for the MCC.

New Car for Ed Aim of Boosters

If plans go through, Ed Dorohoy will be driving a brand new automobile home after the Western Hockey League game between Victoria Cougars and Seattle Bombers on Friday, February 12.

That's the night which has been set aside as "Ed Dorohoy Night" at Memorial Arena, and the Cougar Booster Club is hoping to raise enough money to pay the difference between a 1954 model and the 1951 car the popular Cougar centre is now driving. Anyone wishing to participate can do so by getting in touch with Jack Kersey between periods at any games between now and February 12 or by telephoning G 2976 in the evenings.

Dorohoy is in his fifth season with the Cougars and last night played his 285th game for the Victoria club, the ever-trying Dorohoy has compiled a terrific record.

POINT A GAME

He didn't join the club until the season was well underway in his first season with the Cougars, getting into only 31 games, but he managed to average a point a game with 15 goals and 16 assists.

Dorohoy has improved that considerably in the intervening period. Counting last night's two points, he now has 335 points for 285 games. He led the league in scoring in 1950-51, his first full season, with 29 goals and 58 assists, the latter also a league high. In 1951-52, he was second in the point race but led in assists as he scored 29 goals for a second straight season and passed for 56. He slipped a bit last season, when he had the added duties of coach, and could do no better than fourth with 24 goals and 54 assists for 78 points. But he's at it again this season, leading the league with 54 points in the 48 games his club has played.

TOPS AS PLAYMAKER

While Eddie is known best for his playmaking ability, he is also a pretty fair sort of a scorer, averaging just over 27 goals a season for the three full seasons he has played and showing 116 goals for 285 games, a good record in any league. And to top it off, he has been among the most durable players in the league, missing only four games in the last four seasons. He played 68 each of his first two full seasons, all 70 last season, and all 48 this season.

About the only place Eddie has fallen down has been in the all-star voting and, off his record, that could be blamed on selectors. However, he was selected to the third team last season and the second team in 1951-52 and is a standout candidate for the first team this time. One might say that a 'night' is certainly due.

Shorts Again Legal Garb For Golf Play

NEW YORK (AP) — Shorts again are legal for competitors in women's tournaments sponsored by the United States Golf Association.

The ban on shorts was rescinded by delegates to the annual meeting of the USGA Saturday. It was passed a year ago but had not been enforced since the 1953 women's amateur tournament at Providence, R.I., last summer.

"I hope," sighed Totten P. Heffelfinger, retiring president, "that this settles — forever — what women golfers may wear during a tournament."

Starting next year, only the winners of the previous five U.S. Opens will be admitted to title play in the U.S. Open without qualifying. In previous years all previous Open winners were admitted.

Amateur Star Beats Pros In San Diego Open Golf

RANCHO SANTA FE, Calif. (AP)—Gene Littler, U.S. amateur champion, stood off the challenge of professional stars and a driving rain to win the $15,000 San Diego open golf championship Sunday with a final-round par 72 and a 72-hole score of 274.

The 23-year-old native of San Diego swept in by four strokes over E. J. "Dutch" Harrison of Ardmore, Okla., who picked up the $2,400 top money.

FIRST SINCE 1948

Littler, with a victory that marked the first by an amateur in a major open tournament since Frank Stranahan won the Miami open in 1948, went around in 38-34—72.

His 274 total was 14 strokes under par for the tournament route over the 6,800-yard Rancho Santa Fe golf club.

Tied at 280 and winner of $1,600 apiece were former U.S. open champion Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, with a last-round 73, and stocky Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N.Y., with a 71.

Alone at 282 was Bob Toski of Northampton, Mass., while Ed Furgol of St. Louis had 283.

Among the leaders was Stan Leonard of Vancouver who was tied with three others at 286. He earned $360. Leonard carded a 73 Sunday. His earlier rounds were 71, 69, 73.

BETSY RAWLS

Golf--- Here's How

BY SAM SNEAD

Most golfers enjoy the thrill of a long, well hit ball even though the short shots are usually the "pay-off". With the long clubs the left foot is drawn slightly further back from the direction line than the right, the feet are about shoulder-width apart and the left toe pointing slightly toward the green. In the drawing note the left arm is straight, left shoulder under chin, wrists fully cocked and the player has put plenty of stretch into his swing. This gives a good windup or pivot. The shaft of the club parallels the direction line the player wants ball to follow. It is not advisable for any but supple, practiced players, to let the club-head swing much, if any, below the horizontal. But any player can put the wrist-cocking action into the shot without losing control. And with the wrists cocked you're in position in the last third of the downswing to whip that clubhead into the ball. Take a fraction of a second pause at the top of the backswing to avoid attempting to go two directions at once.

Tom Jackson Ends Hopes Of Rex Layne

BROOKLYN (AP)—Tommy Hurricane Jackson, a 22-year-old perpetual-motion machine fighting his first main bout, ended the comeback hope of ponderous Rex Layne Monday night by stopping the Lewiston, Utah, veteran, on a technical knockout in 1:44 of the sixth round at Eastern Parkway Arena. Jackson weighed 194½, Layne 202.

The kid from New York dropped Layne twice in the sixth round before referee Mark Conn called a halt to the scheduled 10-rounder.

Next game: Tomorrow, Montreal at Toronto.

Chicago Black Hawks grabbed the National Hockey League spotlight Sunday night as they came up with a stunning 8-3 triumph over the second-place Montreal Canadiens at Chicago.

Victory, only the ninth of the season for Hawks in 48 games, ended a nine-game losing streak. It was also quite a form reversal. Not long ago, the Canadians trimmed the Hawks, 12-1, and on Saturday night, they had little trouble in picking up a 5-1 win.

ONE FOR LYNN

Other games Sunday saw Detroit Red Wings continue their absolute mastery of Toronto Maple Leafs on Detroit ice and Lynn Patrick score his first win over brother Muzz.

The league-leading Wings blanked the Leafs for the fifth straight time in Detroit, winning, 2-0, while the Boston Bruins regained possession of fourth place by edging past the New York Rangers, 2-1. It was the third meeting between the two teams since Muzz Patrick took over the coaching job for Rangers and his first setback.

HILDEBRAND SCORES

At Chicago, two newcomers contributed to Chicago's surprising win, Jack McIntyre, purchased only last week from Boston Bruins, who had him playing for their AHL farm club at Hershey, scored two goals. Ike Hildebrand, who started the season with the Rangers and then failed to get a point in eight games in the WHL with Vancouver Canucks, signalized his return to the major leagues with a goal and an assist.

Goalie Terry Sawchuck got his eight shutout and got back in the thick of the race for the Vezina Trophy at Detroit as the Leafs continued their amazing impotence in Detroit. Gordie Howe got the first goal midway through the second period and rookie Bill Dineen the insurance marker in the third.

AGAIN in 1953...
PURCHASES OF LIFE INSURANCE FROM THE LONDON LIFE REACHED AN ALL-TIME RECORD FOR CANADA

Total exceeded $371 million —over one million dollars for every day of the year

Canadians bought more life insurance in 1953 than ever before—and a new record was reached in the $371 million purchased from the London Life Insurance Company. This was $32 million more than 1952, which constituted the previous high mark.

Life insurance in force increased by over $298 million and now exceeds two and three-quarter billion dollars. Well over a million Canadians are insured with the London Life.

Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries increased to almost $27 million for the year, with payments to living policyholders more than twice the amount paid in death claims.

In the Sickness and Accident Branch, benefit payments reached a new high total of over $5½ million. Over 125,000 separate payments were made during the year.

For a more detailed account of the Company's business in 1953, write the London Life head office, or call one of our branch offices for a copy of the Annual Report booklet.

New mortgage loans totalling $48 million were made in 1953, principally for the provision of new dwellings for people in all parts of Canada. There are now in effect more than 31,000 individual mortgage loans. Total assets are more than $447 million and exceed liabilities by $16 million, this surplus fund providing additional protection to policyholders.

The safeguarding of family living standards and the provision of money for the future are of paramount importance to Canadians. To maintain high levels of efficiency in serving clients, training schools for salesmen and office employees were carried on throughout the year. The emphasis is constantly on protection plans providing maximum insurance coverage and low net cost to policyholders.

The London Life enters its 80th year well prepared to carry on its traditions of service, to present and new clients, through its 1,300 field representatives and its 75 branch offices across Canada.

Seven Escape Death In One of Two Fires

Overheating because of cold weather and a faulty fireplace were the causes of two disastrous fires in Victoria Sunday.

Seven persons missed death by minutes at 2508 Blanshard when a faulty fireplace started a fire that destroyed the living room of the house, Sunday night.

At 1811 Crescent Road, four families were driven out into the snow when an overheated chimney started a blaze that gutted the four-suite building, Sunday afternoon.

IN NIGHT ATTIRE

Clad only in night attire, Mrs. N. J. Grabas, 2508 Blanshard and her mother, Mrs. Florence Cunliff led to safety the two Grabas children, Mary Lynn, 7, and Freddie, 5 and two other children, Butch and Leah Temple, five and four, who board at the house and another roomer, 65-year-old Richard Butt.

"If they hadn't been out of there by the time we got there they would never have got out," Fire Chief Frank Briers said.

At Crescent Road, Mrs. C. M. Lowry, 70, risked her life when she returned to the blazing building to rescue her pet budgie bird, only to find it was already safely out of the room.

POSSESSIONS LOST

Mr. and Mrs. James Stansby and their 10-year-old daughter, Mrs. Lowry and her daughter, Miss Josephine Griffin and Mrs. Doris H. Baines lost almost all their possessions in the blaze.

Mrs. Grabas, wife of a crewman aboard HMCS Crusader, in Korea, said her mother awakened her Sunday night and told her the house was afire.

She said she got all four children up, carried each one through the burning part of the house and sent them outside.

Then, assisted by her mother, she helped Mr. Butt out of the front door after he had burned his feet on a red-hot furnace grill.

GIVEN SHELTER

Mrs. Grabas and her family were taken into the home of Mrs. M. Essihos, 2512 Blanshard, for the night and moved later into an auto court cabin.

Mr. Butt was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital by Fire Chief Briers.

"It was almost unbelievable that the firemen arrived so fast," Mrs. Grabas said. "There were 16 of them in the house and working hard before we knew it." The fire trucks were three minutes getting to the fire.

AFTERNOON FIRE

Mr. Stansby, who phoned in the alarm after seeing a puff of smoke appear in his apartment, said the suite next door exploded into flame as he was phoning.

"I had to drop the phone and run as soon as I had called the department," he said. "The place went up like tinder."

Mrs. Lowry and her daughter, Josephine Griffin, were clear of the building when Mr. Stansby ran out, he said.

"Miss Griffin had just left to catch a bus, and as I got out I saw Mrs. Lowry go back into the blazing room," he said.

BIRD RELEASED

She had gone to rescue her bird, not knowing her daughter had previously released it in a neighbor's home.

Mrs. Lowry was helped out of the room by Y. P. Vesey, 1817 Crescent. Mr. Vesey helped firemen rescue what few belongings they could and assisted in getting Mrs. Lowry's car from the garage.

He was highly commended for his assistance by Fire Chief Briers.

James Aspinall and William Hamilton, two city firemen, were treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital for minor cuts and burns they received at the fire.

Navy wives have begun a fund for Mrs. N. J. Grabas, who lost all her possessions in a fire at her home at 2508 Blanshard.

Mrs. Grabas is the wife of a crewman of HMCS Crusader, now in Korean waters. She has two children, five and seven years old.

Duplicate articles of clothing will be sold in a rummage sale, and the proceeds given to Mrs. Grabas. Donations will be handled by Mrs. William Galbraith, 2605 Douglas Street, Empire 5510.

Gold Operators Accused of Gouge

OTTAWA (CP) — Howard Conquergood, education and welfare director of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said Sunday that gold mine operators in Ontario and Quebec are "making a killing" at the taxpayer's expense.

"We know of operators who have closed down high-grade gold veins and have reopened low-grade veins that were closed down 20 and 30 years because they were not productive," he told a union education conference.

The operators then turned to the government and obtained millions of dollars in subsidies, he said.

Court Dismisses Mrs. Haigh's Appeal On Charge of Obstructing Inspector

An appeal by Mrs. Florence Haigh, 1586 Rockland Avenue, from a city police court conviction and $15 fine for obstructing the city building inspector, has been dismissed.

Judge J. B. Clearihue yesterday gave judgment in confirming the sentence, stating "I am of the opinion that the building inspector has the right to enter a building at all reasonable hours to see whether the provisions of the building by-law are being carried out."

AUGUST INCIDENT

The charge arose from an incident August 10 when the building inspector, J. W. Oosterink, Fire Chief Frank Briers and sanitary inspector G. Lloyd Smith appeared at an inner front door of the Haigh residence.

Mrs. Haigh opened the door and stated, "You can't come in here. Harry will be awful mad. Be off with you; be off with you."

Mr. Oosterink said they were there to inspect the premises, as stated earlier in a letter. He said "You are refusing us entry into the building." Mrs. Haigh said, "Be off with you."

Mrs. Haigh was later charged that she did unlawfully interfere with or obstruct the entry of the building inspector at 1586 Rockland.

In his reasons Judge Clearihue said construction of a building is under the building by-law whether it deals with fire escapes, plumbing or other building matters. "The building inspector does not need to designate what he wants to inspect when he asks to be allowed to enter."

Section 58 of the Municipal Act gives power to council to pass by-laws authorizing officers to enter, at all reasonable times, upon any property, subject to regulations of council—in order to ascertain whether such regulations are obeyed and to carry into effect the same.

ALL INSPECTIONS

"Mr. Byers (appellant's counsel) contended that the right to entry was only when the building was under construction, alteration, repair or removal," the judge said, "and these words must be read as applying to all inspections."

Section 208 of the building by-law does not so read, he continued, "the latter part of the section is wide enough to permit a full inspection."

Mr. Byers had not substantiated his contention that there must be force used by the appellants to obstruct the entry, Judge Clearihue said.

"Anyway the by-law uses the word 'interfere with or obstruct,' he added.

"I am of the opinion the appellant did interfere with entry of the building inspector," Judge Clearihue concluded.

Indecency Pondered In Assault Appeal

Prospect of a new trial loomed as a distinct possibility yesterday when B.C. Court of Appeal heard the case of a city man who was convicted and fined $35 last month for indecently assaulting an Indian girl.

The Crown is appealing for an increased sentence while the defense is asking that the conviction be quashed.

Appealing his conviction is [illegible] 1424 Begbie. He was convicted by Magistrate A. I. Thomas in Colwood police court December 16 of indecently assaulting the girl.

Appeal Court, headed by Chief Justice Gordon McG. Sloan, stood the case over yesterday to enable counsel to seek further legal argument as to whether the assault was "indecent."

"There is no question that the [illegible] is the indecency?" queried the chief justice. He was supported by Mr. Justice H. I. Bird.

MINORITY VIEW

A minority view was expressed by Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson who thought the evidence clearly pointed to an indecent assault.

George Gregory is appearing for McKenna and Alan Maclean is Crown Counsel. The appeal will resume at a date yet to be set.

In opening the appeal, Mr. Gregory said McKenna and the 19-year-old girl met on a Nadenbound bus. They spoke and exchanged names. When the girl got off the bus McKenna accompanied her.

It was then alleged, in the evidence, that McKenna had put his arm about the girl and attempted to kiss her. She objected and according to her an indecent assault took place.

DEFENSE POINTS

Mr. Gregory then outlined points which he said were grounds for the quashing of the case.

The magistrate had erred in admitting evidence which was "inadmissible," he said. The magistrate had inadvertently denied the accused the right to make a full answer in his defense. The magistrate had failed to assist the accused in the cross-examination of witnesses.

Defense counsel argued that the only corroboration came from McKenna's evidence which denied the indecent assault.

"I would be pleasantly surprised if the court quashed this conviction without ordering a new trial," concluded Mr. Gregory. "However, at least there should be a new trial."

Mr. Maclean said there was sufficient corroboration to warrant McKenna's conviction.

Chief Justice Sloan said his main concern was where the assault ended and where the indecency began. It was attempted indecent assault according to the evidence, he said.

Pipeline Appeal Near End

Conclusion of a $523,314 garnishee suit against one of the contracting firms which helped drive through the newly-opened Trans-Mountain pipeline will come in B.C. Court of Appeal today.

Campbell-Bennett Ltd., is appealing a judgment of Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne of Vancouver who set aside the firm's application for an order to obtain this sum from Trans-Mountain Pipeline Company. The latter company laid down the oil pipeline from Alberta to Burnaby last year.

The appeal continued here yesterday.

Liberals Ask PGE Study, Cut in Taxes

Completion of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway should be held up and a committee of the legislature should be set up to investigate alternative transportation facilities, in the opinion of Liberal members of the legislature.

The Liberals issued a statement of policy on the PGE, public expenditures and taxation, labor and forestry problems after a Victoria caucus Saturday.

COASTAL HIGHWAY

They suggested a first-class coastal highway from Vancouver to Squamish could be built for less than half the $12,000,000 which Premier Bennett's planned rail extension is expected to cost.

This, they said, would open up the Howe Sound country, give road access to Garibaldi Park and provide faster and cheaper passenger and freight service to the Peace River.

The Liberals called on the government to reduce taxation. A reduction in the forthcoming budget, they said, was "a practical possibility."

The caucus expressed "deep concern" over "the serious deterioration in labor-management relations" and hit at "weakness, vacillation and procrastination" in the labor department.

The Liberals called for revision of th Industrial Conciliation an Arbitration Act and the Workmen's Compensation Act.

They urged the government to hold up approval of any new forest-management licenses, and to appoint a royal commission to investigate the forestry situation.

Free Booklet Tells How Deaf Hear Again With Startling Clarity, Ease

CHICAGO (Special)—New hope for the 15 million persons in the United States who are hard of hearing was voiced by a noted Chicago acoustical scientist.

He reported that through the miracle of modern electronics it is now possible to overcome deafness even if the loss is severe.

He demonstrated how the deaf can hear again with a clarity and ease they never dreamed possible.

According to this electronic engineer, Mr. Sam Posen of Beltone, "the longer a hearing loss is neglected, the harder it is to recapture certain speech sounds and understand them."

To acquaint the hard of hearing readers of this paper with what may be done to help the deaf hear again with miraculous clarity, full authoritative details about deafness and how to overcome it are described in an informative, new, illustrated booklet, which will be sent in a plain wrapper without any cost or obligation.

To obtain your free copy, simply send your request to: Electronic Research Director, Dept. 571A, Beltone Hearing Aid Co., 2900 W. 36th St., Chicago 32, Ill. A postcard will do.

Mrs. B. Pearse Of 'Fernwood' Dies at 100

By JAMES K. NESBITT

Mrs. B. W. Pearse, 100, who had lived in her historic home "Fernwood," at Oak Bay Junction since she went there as a bride 78 years ago, died at the week-end. She would have been 101 in April.

Like the late Mrs. R. P. Rithet, who died here at Hess point, 12 years Mrs. Pearse lived on surrounded by the great possessions of Victoria, a product of a vanguard of an earlier era. Long dead Lady Mrs. Government House in the Island, but she survived her contemporaries, her friends and her old friends.

Her husband, who died in 1892 was 20 years her senior. She was his second wife. His first wife was the sister of Mrs. George Hyde. Engaged with [illegible] Pearse [illegible] to Island "Fernwood" in 1886. [illegible] on a hilltop with a fine [illegible] gardens. Pretty [illegible] of jade and [illegible] chandeliers [illegible] fireplaces of marble.

She missed Mrs. Pearse as [illegible] Lane visited Victoria [illegible] Pioneer came to Victoria in 1871. She was bright, vivacious [illegible] girl, a music and [illegible] as gracious for Irish aristocracy. She just missed here a tremendous [illegible] these days were [illegible] and Mrs. W. J. Macdonald of "Arrandale" a showplace of old Victoria.

WROTE OF TRIP

[illegible] wrote years after. We arranged for passage to New York [illegible] Jessie Pember who was coming [illegible] to her uncle Mr. Bates [illegible] at Liverpool. We had a [illegible] Saw steamer. We had taken [illegible] fares for an Francisco via Panama and much to our disgust we passed the Panama [illegible] steamer going out of New York as we were going in, having sailed a day ahead of time for which I made the Pacific Mail Company pay dearly, as it meant 10 days in a New York hotel.

We took the steamer Colima for Panama, crossed the Isthmus by railway and found [illegible] to the steamer Montana [illegible] San Francisco. There were [illegible] several U.S. naval officers [illegible] stripes should go to Dr. Earl Barnes who made agreeable company. Mrs. Rithet and her son George met us at Panama and came to Victoria with us."

BECAME FRIENDS

The late Mrs. Pearse had died in 1952. Mrs. Pember soon after her arrival and took [illegible] Mr. Pearse became friends. They were married June 9, 1853, as reported in the Colonist: "Marriage Yesterday morning, the Reformed Episcopal Church was filled with a large and fashionable congregation ladies predominating. Who had assembled to witness the nuptials of R. W. Pearse, [illegible] resident engineer of the Public Works Department of Canada to Miss Jessie daughter of the late Hon. Edward Palmer [illegible] of Great Yarmouth, England.

"The bride looked charming in white tarletan with satin basque, and was supported by Misses Deverenux, Mrs. McTavish, Miss Macdonald and Miss Edith Macdonald, bridesmaids. The groomsmen were Dr. Matthews, Hon. Forbes Vernon, Capt. Layton and Mr. McLavish.

The bride was given away by her uncle J. Chesters Bates, Esq. Rt. Rev. Bishop Cridge performed the ceremony."

He dwelt at length on what he said the shameful neglect which had been shown Victoria by the government for 50 years. [illegible] was quite clear of [illegible] feature of the proposal that was the subject of his wrath.

MORE DETAILS

Nothing will kill television faster than the present "You plug my show in your magazine and I'll plug your magazine on my show" routine.

Smooth Leather, Suede Not Different Materials

"Yes madam, we have it both in leather and suede."

You've probably heard this remark dozens of times when you have been shopping for shoes. And it's repeated hundreds of times daily in shoe stores all over Canada.

What most of us don't know, including too many shoe sales people, is that suede is leather with the nap on the outside. Both are the same type of skin.

Suede is leather but it's leather which has been buffed to bring up the silky nap.

Since you'll be seeing a lot of shoes and garments made of suede leather in your favorite stores this winter and spring, here is some information about it that is worth-while knowing.

What makes this information more important now than ever before is that in 1954 suede really emerges as a glamour girl in the leather family. Where once the black suede pump reigned supreme — with maybe a brown or navy for variety—today you can get suede shoes in no less than 30 different colors.

Some of the more exotic shades of suede leather which will be used this spring in shoes [illegible] color, moonstone, a beautiful smoky grey; spicetang, a [illegible] cinnamon; sweet lilac, a [illegible] cafe lavender; chalky pink, [illegible] which looks just like it sounds; [illegible] a pale [illegible]

The best single piece of advice this column can offer for the New Year is: "Don't be in too much of a hurry to puff your losers." If you are going to be able to take the puff later, it may prove to be much more advantageous to postpone it to a time when the puff in addition to saving you a trick may also furnish you a re-entry.

After cashing the king and ace of spades, the defense shifted to a club. South ruffed up with the ace in order to bump his last spade in dummy, then set down a couple of rounds of trumps leaving the high one extant in East's hand. Then he took a successful finesse of dummy's queen of diamonds. The ace dropped. West's king-jack trumped the next diamond lead. But with only one entry remaining in dummy, South couldn't establish the fifth diamond and get back to cash it. So in addition to the two spades already lost, he had to surrender a trump and a club trick. Result: down one.

Note the difference if South postpones taking that ruff. He must also postpone taking trumps until he has taken the diamond finesse for he cannot risk having the finesse lose. East might then be able to cash a high trump and prevent declarer from ever ruffing his spade loser. So South's first play after the ace of clubs (which he takes in order to keep North's king as a re-entry for later use) is to try the diamond finesse. When the queen wins, South takes two rounds of trumps, goes back to dummy with the ace of diamonds and trumps a diamond. Now he makes use of the opportunity to trump a spade in order to regain entry to dummy. The fourth diamond is trumped and now the fifth one is established and the club king regains for South to get back to cash it. He discards his third club on the good diamond, and East is able to make only his high trump in addition to the two spades already taken. Contract made instead of defeated, solely because South was in no hurry to take his ruff.

City Schooner Still in Race

ACAPULCO, Mexico — The schooner Black Dog of Victoria is still among the trailers in the second annual San Diego to Acapulco yacht race.

According to reports Vester Burgess of the Black Dog, skippered by William Tellier of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, was among eight vessels scattered behind the leaders.

Fred Allen's yacht Fair Weather is at present battling the Constellation for the lead in the final 750 miles of the race.

Assessments Confirmed

The city's court of revision on local improvement assessments confirmed 48 cases at a hearing yesterday and heard only three appeals.

A slight adjustment will be made on local improvement charges for a concrete sidewalk on Green Oaks Terrace. A delegation from Green Oaks appeared at the hearing.

Most of the local improvement charges were levied for new curbs and streets.

Reeve Explains in Detail Opposition to Roadway

Reeve Sydney Pickles of Central Saanich in a letter to the Colonist Saturday, explained in detail his reasons for recommending against establishment of Tunstead Road as a municipal road for which his municipality would be responsible.

Reeve Pickles wrote from California where he will spend the next couple of months because of ill health.

"This private road is not gazetted by the province, it is not mapped and has not yet been proven to be a public road," stated the reeve.

PRIVATE DRIVE

It was originally known as Tunstead's Road and was many years ago a private drive to a Mr. Tunstead's house, he continued. "Apparently this private road can continue to provide access to the one property being served by it and consequently no real hardship actually exists. It has been so used for many years in the past."

Reeve Pickles said the present owner of the single property served by the road made an offer to the 1953 Central Saanich council offering to buy the road from another property owner and present it as a gift to the municipality.

"The reeve said the offer was unacceptable "as a municipal responsibility and expense to our taxpayers" unless it is offered with a proper guarantee that it would first be made to comply with prevailing municipal specifications as to width and construction.

TAX PROTECTION

"This recommendation is for the protection of our ratepayers from being landed in the future into considerable expenditure of their tax monies in connection with this or any other such private road, after its acceptance," he explained.

"I am officially obliged to make this report and recommendation although I personally sympathize with the property owner concerned over his difficulty after he chose to purchase a large acreage of property which had no legal access by public road, through a past error of our provincial land registry department," stated Reeve Pickles.

"This situation was known at the time of the purchase as at least one other person declined to buy this property on account of lack of public road access," he said. "It is not a municipal responsibility to provide a public road access in such a case."

Changes in Liquor Laws To Help Tourist Trade

Appreciation of the attorney-general's steps to improve the laws of the province affecting licensed restaurants for the city of Victoria, "Today many people break the law to get just what the new regulations will allow. We should encourage anything that educates us to drink properly," he said.

He foresaw a danger to Victoria's tourist trade if a vote against the new licensing laws was taken and carried.

"We would be surrounded by cities in which the tourist has the facilities to have a drink with his meal or in the pleasant surroundings of a cocktail lounge," he added.

Mayor Harrison said he was in favor of licenses for Victoria and that he had written his views on the matter to the council.

The sale of liquor by the glass was voiced by the Tourist Trade Group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

"I think we are all agreed that the changes will be to the advantage of the tourist trade," said Bob Nelles.

Accidents Cause Single Injury

Only one person was injured in a series of traffic accidents blamed on snow slippery streets over the week end, police report.

Roy Stark, 17, of 1873 Granville, was treated for hip and leg injuries in Royal Jubilee Hospital Sunday after a toboggan on which he was being into a parked car on Burnside Road, Saanich police said.

In the city, a car driven by G. E. Mortimore, Baywood Road, Langford, was in collision with one driven by Paul Ukrainetz, of Youhou, at the intersection of Government and Toronto.

DAMAGE HEAVY

Although damage to the Ukrainetz car was described as heavy by police officers, no one was injured. The Mortimore car was only slightly damaged.

Two near tragedies were reported when cars collided with speeding fire engines Sunday. Both fire trucks were on the way to a call from Bay and Victor that proved to be a false alarm.

As the pumper truck was approaching Bay and Victor, R.T. Gower tried to stop and let it pass, but skidded into the side of the truck. Damage to his car was estimated at about $600, but damage to the fire truck was light.

In collision with a ladder truck at Pandora and Bgad, going to the same fire, was Edmond Mark, 76 Gorge.

Damage to both vehicles was light, police said.

Both accidents occurred during a heavy fall of snow when driving was slippery and visibility bad, police said. No police action against the drivers is pending.

Several other minor accidents were reported by city traffic officers, all caused by slippery streets.

Oak Bay and Esquimalt reported a quiet week end with nothing worse than cars skidding off roads into snow drifts and ditches.

Civil Defense Backs Mayor On Fireboat

The Greater Victoria Civil Defense Control Board has endorsed Mayor Claude Harrison's move to obtain a fireboat for the Victoria harbor.

The board has written the city asking council to consider acquiring a fireboat.

BARGE REJECTED

Meanwhile, a check of city files shows that city council turned down a proposal July, 1946, to take over a war assets fire barge.

The fire wardens at that time recommended returning a fire-barge there from the WAC on approval, because salaries and maintenance would amount to $18,000.

Fire Damages Nurses' Home

QUESNEL, B.C. (CP)—A fire caused $30,000 damage to the nurses' residence at the general hospital here Sunday.

No one was injured, but the patients in the hospital 30 feet from the home were dressed and ready for evacuation in case of emergency.

The fire, believed to have started in the furnace room, raced through heat ducts in the two-story frame building.

Miss Mary Lang, matron, and Nurses Frances O'Leary and Doris Hall were in the building when the fire broke out. They escaped with only the clothes they were wearing.

Elderly Man's Death Caused by Fall

Injuries sustained in a fall down a flight of stairs were found to be the cause of death of 85-year-old Thomas Thompson, 3284 Tennyson, on January 20, a coroner's jury decided yesterday.

Thompson was found lying in the back yard of his home on the evening of January 8, about 13 feet from the bottom of the back stairs.

Anthony Spouse, 501 Kelvin Road, told the jury he found Thompson lying on his right side, about 10 feet from a pool of blood at the bottom of the steps.

He said he covered him and called the police.

Constable Robin Stewart, Saanich police, said he answered the call and found Thompson lying on the grass, bleeding profusely from the head and face.

There were bruises on the back of both wrists and Thompson was just barely conscious, he said.

Dr. R. McNeely, pathologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital, testified that bruises found on the head and face of the dead man showed he could have fallen.

He said the skull was fractured, there were bruises on both sides of the head, a two-inch cut over the right eye and bruises on the left back portion of the brain.

A clot of blood in one of the main veins near the lung was the cause of death, he said.

Asked if the wounds on the head and face could have been inflicted by a weapon or fist, he said it was not likely.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - By Howard Garis

IN THE SNOW

After they had rescued Bunty from the polar bear's igloo house where she was frozen in by accident, Uncle Wiggily, Chief, his helper Sergeant Bill and the orphan rabbit started to hop away over the snow. Bunty and Uncle Wiggily were going home to the hollow stump bungalow. Chief and Sergeant Bill were going in their jeep squad car to the police dog headquarters.

Then, suddenly, as I told you in yesterday's story, Beckie, the little girl bear, in her own special igloo, was heard shouting.

"What is she shouting about?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"It's something about a doll," Chief answered when he listened at the snowball door of Beckie's igloo.

"About a doll!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "Does Beckie want Bunty's doll—does she want Priscilla the talking doll, Chief?"

"I don't know," barked the police dog. "All I know is that Beckie is talking about some doll."

"Where is your doll, Priscilla?" asked Uncle Wiggily of Bunty.

"She is home in her crib with a cold," the orphan rabbit answered. "I couldn't bring her out in all this snow."

"I know Priscilla has a cold," barked Chief. "I was up in your bedroom, Bunty talking to your doll just before we came here to the igloos. It was Priscilla who said you were coming here to have igloo fun, Bunty. If it hadn't been for Priscilla, Uncle Wiggily, Bill and I would not have known where to look for you."

"My Priscilla doll is very smart," said Bunty. "But I do not believe that Beckie is talking about my doll."

"What doll is she talking about then, my dear?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Beckie is talking about her own doll," the orphan rabbit said.

"Has Beckie a doll with her in the igloo where she is taking her long Winter sleep?" asked Chief.

"Yes, she has," replied Bunty. "I woke Beckie out of her Winter sleep by blowing the New Year horn. I wanted Beckie to help get me out of the polar bear's snow house. And then Beckie told me she had a doll that Santa Claus had left in the igloo as part of her Christmas."

"Oh, now I remember," said Uncle Wiggily. "Santa Claus sent some extra presents down to Mr. Whitewash by plane and helicopter. Mr. Whitewash put the presents for Beckie in the igloo with her. That's how she happens to have a doll now."

"But what does she want us to do about the doll?" barked Sergeant Bill.

"I will listen again at the snowball door and try to hear what Beckie is saying," offered Chief. He trotted back to the igloo that Mr. Whitewash had made for the little girl bear to use for her long, winter hibernating sleep. By accident Beckie had been shut out of her home den where she should have gone to sleep with her father, her mother and brother Neddie.

"What are you saying about a doll, Beckie?" Chief barked in a loud voice. He listened. The others could not hear what Beckie answered, but Chief told them. The police dog said:

"Beckie wants Bunty to take the Christmas doll home to the hollow stump bungalow. Beckie thinks maybe her doll will catch cold if she stays in the igloo until spring."

"Very true, she might," said Uncle Wiggily. "But how are we going to get Beckie's doll out of the igloo for Bunty to take with her to my hollow stump bungalow? How can we get the doll, Chief?"

"Sergeant Bill and I will use the ice picks. We will make a hole in the igloo and Beckie can pass out her doll," Chief barked.

In a short time he and Sergeant Bill had made the hole. Beckie passed her doll out to Bunty who cuddled it in her paws. Then the hole in the igloo was closed again so Beckie could finish her winter sleep. Chief and Bill rode in the jeep to headquarters. Uncle Wiggily, Bunty and Beckie's doll hurried to the bungalow. But suddenly, it began snowing very hard. And something happened.

I can tell you about it in tomorrow's story if the pussy cat will put on her mittens when she goes to the movies with the puppy dog.

A few weeks ago we received an emergency call to confer with a gentleman in his 87th year. He had suffered a heart attack. There was no will, but he hoped to make one before he died.

The only unusual aspect was that the man was still hoping at 87. Every man intends to make a will, but many put it off in the hope of making better provision some day for their dependents.

Concern Expressed Over Site of Mill

The possibility that Victoria might be the site of a new pulp mill was discussed by members of the tourist trade group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

Some alarm was expressed at the effect the erection of such a plant in the inner harbor would have on the tourist industry and in the city as a residential city.

The concern was over the smell which notoriously goes with the pulp industry.

ACTION UNTIMELY

Several members did not believe that Victoria would be chosen as it lacked a cheap supply of power.

It was considered that any form of action against a mill here would be untimely in view of the district's encouragement of industry.

The group decided meantime to take no action, but to watch developments closely.

Home Destroyed When Pipes Thawed

Loss $10,000 in Campbell River Fire

CAMPBELL RIVER — The home of Louis Dotto was destroyed by fire here Sunday, causing damage estimated at $10,000.

Mr. Dotto, his wife and two teenage sons escaped unhurt. The fire was believed to have been caused from thawing frozen pipes with flaming newspapers.

The owner believed he had extinguished all the newspapers and was sitting in his kitchen when part of the ceiling crashed. Flames had begun under the house, spread between the walls and into the attic.

SPREAD PREVENTED

Firemen fought the blaze in a 20 degree temperature and prevented the flames from spreading to nearby buildings.

The house and its contents were total losses, covered by partial insurance.

Taken from the ruins in perfect condition was the family bible, which escaped flames in the drawer of a table.

The complete loss was the first for the Campbell River Volunteer Fire Department since a mill fire of 1949.

Scots Pay Tribute To Burns' Memory

[illegible] and jollity, mixed equally with large portions of reminiscence and anecdotes was the recipe followed last night to make the 32nd annual Victoria Burns' Club supper one of the friendliest and warmest on record.

The chairman of the night, Harry Wood, wasted no time in setting the stage for the proceedings.

Admitting that the impending Big Four meeting augured extremely well since it was get-sary of Robert Burns' birthday, he prophesized that it would certainly come to a happy conclusion if the various ministers first sat down to "a feed of steaming haggis."

Tom Taylor, Assistant Editor of The Daily Colonist, toasted "the Land of Our Adoption."

He said those who had made Canada their home should pay their first allegiance to it.

In answering Mr. Taylor's toast, George Gregory, MLA, pointed out the many accomplishments Scottish people had made in Canada in all fields of endeavor.

Rev. William Hills delivered the toast to men in the service. He said that if servicemen were better treated there would be no difficulty in getting them to join the services.

He was answered by Major D. M. A. Murray, who explained what an important part tradition had played in helping our servicemen achive the deeds they have.

Principal speaker was Rev. T. H. McAllister, a past president of the club. He delivered the toast to the immortal memory of Robert Burns.

Mr. McAllister declared that contrary to the opinions of critics, Burns was a man who worshipped God and had a very lively conscience.

Robert Burns was a poet, philosopher, prophet and patriot he said.

Col. Don McGugan made a toast to the lassies and was answered by Mrs. Mary Groszek. Capt. D. J. Proudfoot also spoke briefly.

John Bell and Mrs. Mary Campbell entertained with songs and Piper Jim McMillan played bagpipe selections. The accompanist was Mrs. E. A. Cartwright, ATCM.

New Award Considered By Jaycees

Seven Victoria Jaycees returned yesterday from attending ceremonies in Seattle sponsored by the U.S. Jaycees to honor its choice of the 10 outstanding young men of the United States.

The ceremonies were so impressive we were inspired to attempt something similar for Victoria, Jaycee president Jack Ledger said yesterday.

Canadian Jaycees already are considering sponsoring a Canada-wide program to honor Canada's five outstanding young men.

From the Victoria club Jack Ledger and Alf Heaslip took part in a panel discussion which was filmed over television and broadcast over a national hookup.

Fifty visiting Canadian members sponsored a noon luncheon for the convention on Saturday. Rev. William Hills of Victoria was guest speaker.

Attending from Victoria were Jack Ledger, Alf Heaslip, Lorrace Kirk, Don Smith, Gordon Carter, Victor Fuggle and Stickney Harris. Their wives went also.

Tourist Body Favors Fast Ferry

The Tourist Trade Group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce is in favor of the proposed new fast ferry between the Saanich Peninsula and Vancouver, but it wants full assurance that such a ferry would not affect the popular summer triangle service supplied by the CPR.

"We think that if a fast loading ferry with a reasonable fare were introduced it would encourage far more tourists to bring their cars to Vancouver Island," said Roy Denny. At the moment only 10 per cent of the tourists in the northwest bring their cars to the Island.

J. McMorran said he had studied the proposed run and thought Steveston would be a better spot than Vancouver for the Mainland terminal.

Geoffrey Edgelow said the development of Swartz Bay would increase Victoria's trading position with the Gulf Islands.

Walter Miles wanted a speedy introduction of the service but said the Princess Elaine was not the answer, even temporarily.

Mr. Denny's motion that the group support the chamber in the move for the ferry service was approved.

Flying Club Presented With Award

The Victoria Flying Club has been presented with a safe-flying award by the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs' Association, which is holding its annual convention in Ottawa.

The Victoria club was among 21 flying clubs which did not have a single accident last year.

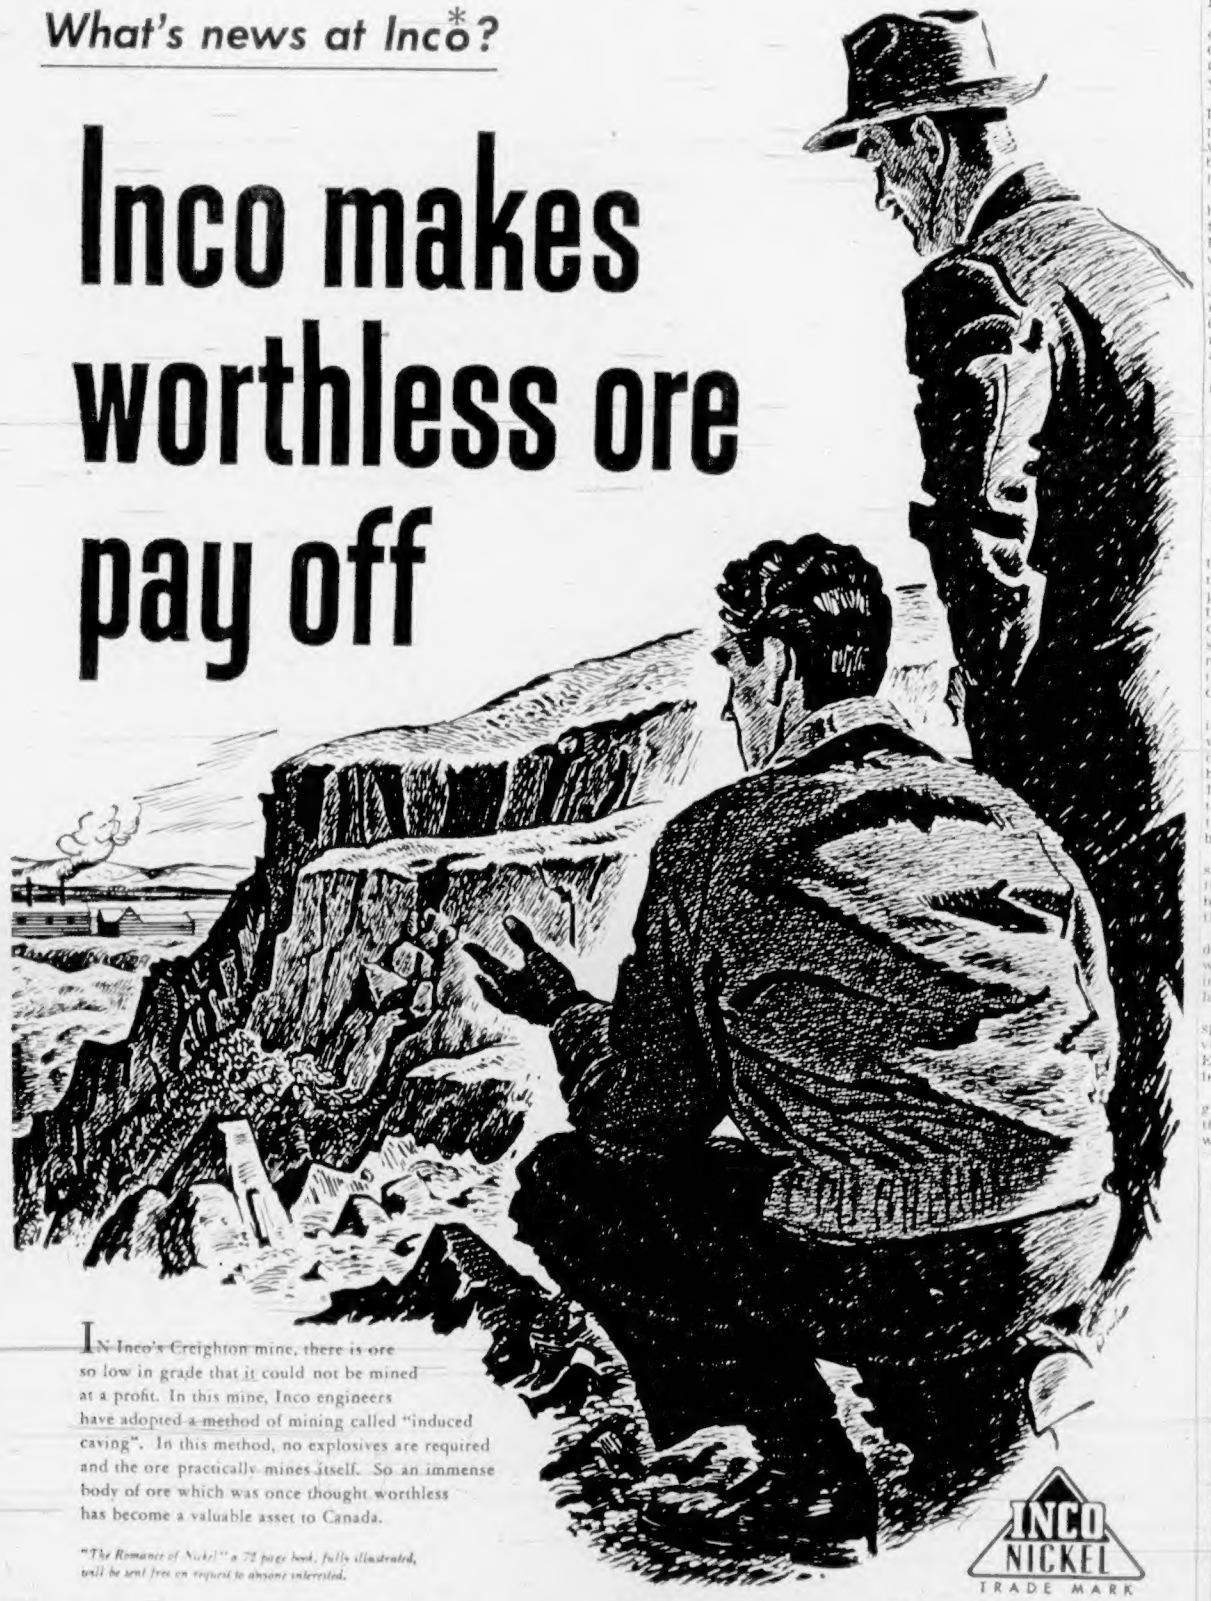
Inco makes worthless ore pay off



IN Inco's Creighton mine, there is ore so low in grade that it could not be mined at a profit. In this mine, Inco engineers have adopted a method of mining called "induced caving". In this method, no explosives are required and the ore practically mines itself. So an immense body of ore which was once thought worthless has become a valuable asset to Canada.

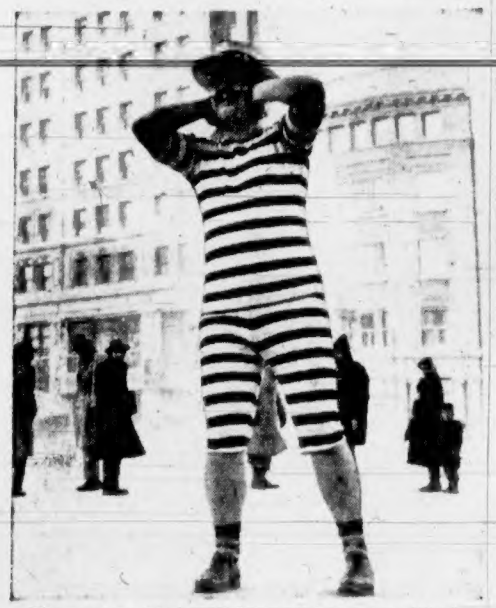
STORM MOVING IN; MORE SNOW LIKELY

Chilly Work Cut Out for Him



The mercury stood at 33 degrees below zero on Winnipeg's famed corner of Portage and Main when Winnipeg Tribune reporter Leon Kossar donned an old-fashioned bathing suit and straw hat to show shivering citizens in the background that it wasn't really that bad. Said Kossar: "It just takes stamina, courage, fortitude, determination and sheer stupidity." Or, as in this case, scissors, paste and two pictures.—(CP photo.)

Highways Passable

More snow is coming, according to weather forecaster William Mackie. All of British Columbia is digging its way out after a heavy snowfall over the week-end and Monday.

The storm centre over northern Vancouver Island was almost stationary and weakening rapidly. However, another disturbance developing 400 miles west of the B.C. coast was expected to be felt here by morning.

Snow was expected over northern Vancouver Island from this storm, and mixed rain and snow over southern Vancouver Island.

Traffic was snarled almost to a standstill Monday morning.

Victoria's snow turned to rain and left the streets a slippery, slushy mess.

But snow started falling here again last night.

All main roads on Vancouver Island were passable yesterday, but chains were needed in most places.

Campbell River had more than two feet of snow over the week end to add to the two feet it already had.

Nanaimo has had 4½ feet of snow this month. It had 16 inches of fresh snow Sunday night and more yesterday.

Fifty-nine Island schools with a total enrollment of 9,240 have been closed.

On the Island, 15,000 persons are jobless, the National Employment Service reports.

E & N Railway was using a snowplow in front of its engines.

Worst hit on the lower Island is the Langford-Colwood-Happy Valley area, which had two feet of snow by last night.

Buses are being crowded by workers who have decided home is the best place for their cars.

Because firemen can't get out of their driveways to answer calls, the Langford fire department has put three men on night duty at the station.

At Crofton it was raining yesterday but it was snowing at nearby Chemainus, which has 18 inches of snow.

Only five out of 32 men called for longshore work showed up at Chemainus. The rest were snowed in at side roads. But all of a crew from Victoria reported.

Nanaimo has stopped all parking on downtown streets. Schools have been closed since Friday and bus service to many areas of the city was not operating yesterday.

MacMillan & Bloedel workers at Harmac Mill were not able to report to work until 10 a.m. Monday, after plows opened the highway.

Pacific Biological Station at Departure Bay was isolated.

Schools were closed in the Parksville district.

Heavy snow was blamed for a train-car collision early Monday at Craig's Crossing near Parksville.

A. J. Ifjordsvar escaped injury when he drove into an E & N freight train, but his car sustained about $1,000 damage.

It snowed at Port Alberni all day yesterday. Buses were running on schedule and the mountain highway was open.

At Campbell River the government grader was sent to Kelsey Bay to clear the way for a Salmon River Logging Company ambulance rushing Clifford Buxton to hospital with acute appendicitis.

In Vancouver, 100,000 school children were ordered to stay home.

Vancouver's International Airport was still operating yesterday as snowplows and flame throwers fought big drifts.

Some TCA flights to Victoria were canceled.

Plows Pile Faster than Diggers Can Dig

Frustration faced these three women as they tried to dig themselves out of two feet of snow which blocked their Langford Lake homes. They were thwarted by snow plows which threw on a fresh pile of snow as fast as they could dig away. This nuisance has plagued them for 12 days. Many cars are snowed in for duration of the cold snap at Langford. Main roads are all open, but chains are advised.

Tot's Father Gets 10 Years

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—Russell Tongay was convicted of manslaughter Monday in the high-dive death of his swimming star daughter and sentenced to 10 years at hard labor.

An all-male Circuit Court jury deliberated less than an hour before it returned a guilty verdict against the 36-year-old ex-Coast Guardsman who had been pictured as a drillmaster who made his children perform difficult aquatic feats.

His weeping wife, the main witness for the defense, was in the courtroom as the verdict was returned. Tongay himself appeared imperturable, as he had through most of the four-day trial.

Defense Attorney Louis Jepeway asked for four days in which to plan an appeal.

In his summation, assistant prosecutor A. C. Dressler asserted that for "purely selfish gain" Tongay put his children through perilous routines for their "Aquatots" act.

The child died last May 6, several hours after a high dive which the state contended resulted in a fatal injury.

Mrs. Tongay testified that five-year-old Kathy executed "beautiful" dives from the 33-foot-high board the day the state contended she was fatally injured.

Attorney Jepeway, who said the verdict "came as a shock—everyone was surprised," moved for a new trial, which was denied. Judge Ben Willard revoked Tongay's $1,000 pre-trial bond, but set a $5,000 appeal bond.

The jury made up its mind in 52 minutes, but had to be sent back briefly to re-draft the verdict.

Mrs. Tongay testified that "it was as natural for Kathy to dive as for another child to walk around a pool."

Her testimony contradicted that of other witnesses, including expert aquatic instructors, that Kathy never struck the water correctly when she attempted the high dive.

Mrs. Tongay admitted that Kathy complained, "Mommy, my neck hurts" after the early morning swimming and diving practice.

A doctor was called later, but did not arrive until 6 p.m., she said, and then Kathy was taken to a hospital but died. "Before the doctor got to the hospital—we had lost Kathy."

An autopsy disclosed that the child died of a ruptured intestine and complications.

Express Races Royal Car

DUNEDIN, New Zealand (AP) — A New Zealand locomotive engineer, apparently determined to let passengers on his train get a good look at Queen Elizabeth, raced the monarch's car 50 miles Monday into Dunedin. Clouds of black smoke from the speeding engine at times enveloped the Royal party.

The race began when the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, driving to Dunedin after a two-day rest in a private home at Longbeach, near Ashburton, hit the main road that runs parallel to the railroad and only a few yards away. The Christchurch-Dunedin express roared down the track at the same time.

Coffee $1.25 Next Month

A retail coffee price of $1.15 a pound is expected very soon, and $1.25 a pound by the end of February, Vancouver Island wholesalers report.

Popular brands' prices now range to about $1.10 a pound, it was reported. One spokesman said that on the present wholesale level of $1.05 a pound the retail prices should be $1.15 now to allow a sufficient operating markup for retailers.

The last price jump, eight days ago, was three cents a pound. Just before that, a buyers' rush developed, and has affected the market slightly.

It was felt that only less consumption might help straighten out the market, which is suffering from a shortage of coffee.

The National Coffee Association says the increases resulted from a "tight situation of supply" caused by a drought one year and a frost the next, which damaged a large part of Brazil's coffee crop.

Island wholesalers said they are directly affected by the open market demand for the crop, and that when it is in their warehouses they are also faced with its perishability.

"The 10-cent cup of coffee may also vanish in city restaurants when prices reach about $1.20, one restaurateur said. Twelve cents seemed a likely price, he said.

Police Break Student Riot Against Britain

MADRID (Reuters) — More than 8,000 anti-British students battled sword-swinging Spanish police for three hours Monday in front of the British embassy in Madrid. Thirty students and 18 policemen were reported injured.

The rioting students shouting "We want Gibraltar," made 20 charges against 300 police wedged against the embassy building, hurling rocks as they advanced.

Russia Hints Deal On Korean Peace

BERLIN (UP)—Russia offered Monday at the opening of the Big Four conference to end the deadlock in Korean peace negotiations if the West would admit Red China to a five-power conference.

Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov warned at the same time that unless the European army plan is scrapped, the Soviets might organize a similar eastern bloc.

Molotov's tough and generally uncompromising statement was studded with demands that would spell the wrecking of the Western defense setup and the abandonment of far-flung U.S. bases.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles declined Molotov's invitation to reply at once. He said the speech included several new points and attacks on U.S. policy, and he would "prefer to sleep on it."

Dulles, Molotov, Anthony Eden of Britain and Georges Bidault of France met for three hours and 45 minutes in the Allied control council building.

Molotov put a meeting with China at the top of his proposed agenda for the present conference. Germany, including European security, and an Austrian treaty were his second and third points.

Observing that the whole Korean situation was confused and efforts to arrange a peace conference had broken down, Molotov said:

"All this is to a great extent connected with the absence of normal relations between certain great powers (the United States and Red China).

"There can be no doubt that the calling of a five-power meeting would contribute to the removal of a number of difficulties existing now in regard to the Korean question and to the solution of certain other urgent international problems."

The West countered with its own peace program. It was based on the unification of Germany after all-German elections, guarantees against anti-Soviet aggression, and President Eisenhower's atomic pool plan.

Views Split Sharply In Letters on Liquor

—BY THE JUDGE

As I expected when the question of the new liquor system was posed, there's a sharp division in the first flood of mail received today.

Some letter writers are frankly "drys," others are tolerant, while few to date could be classed as frankly "wets."

But there's the rest of this week to go yet, and $35 in prizes remaining. So let the Judge hear from you on:

"What do you think of the new liquor system?"

DEFINITELY GOOD:

Dear Judge,

Definitely good: Almost anything would be better than the present furtive, bottle-under-the-table-room-in-the-hotel system of drinking.

Those who are vetoing it are probably doing it on moral grounds. Why? There will always be wine and spirits in the world, and far better to train our youth to handle it moderately (if inclined), than to force them to abstain. I don't think tourists will visit Victoria for its cocktail bars or cabarets, their home towns probably already have more glamorous ones. They will find such places useful as resting places between sight-seeing jaunts.

I'm looking forward to this year's Wedding Anniversary, when we are able to dine out and wine out!

MARY CHAFFEY,
577 Brookleigh Road,
Royal Oak.

(I hope it's a good anniversary, and have the first one on the Judge with the $2 award for this best letter of the day.)

Map Supply Dwindling For Readers

The final supply of 2,500 of the wonderful color maps of British Columbia is dwindling fast. The Daily Colonist is distributing the B.C. Natural Resources Conference maps at cost as a public service.

Maps may be picked up at the downtown offices on Broad Street for 55 cents (53 cents plus two cents tax) and by mail order to the Editorial Offices of the Colonist for 75 cents (72 cents plus three cents tax).

Library To Scrap Pro-Red Volumes

A "clean-up" of subversive pro-Communist books on the shelves of the Victoria Public Library may be undertaken soon, it was learned yesterday.

A member of the 1954 library board has stated that literature "of a subversive nature" should be removed from a library which is supported by public funds in a democratic country.

He said he may start an investigation into the matter to determine what the library carries. He said he did not object to historical books on Communist philosophy, but to current literature which supported the party line on national and international affairs.

Mayor Claude Harrison stated recently he "very much doubted" the wisdom of a public library carrying such material. He said no one should be told what to read, but a public library should extoll the way of life which supports it. If anyone wants the other kind of reading, he said, they should buy it.

Canadian Dollars in New York On Par with Confederate Funds

(Mr. Bruton returned to his regular duties as a Colonist staff reporter yesterday after two weeks in New York.)

By PETER BRUTON

Canadian dollars and Russian rubles are on par with Confederate money in New York today. As far as New Yorkers are concerned, all three currencies are just plain garbage.

Official exchange rates place the Canadian greenback at nearly three cents above its U.S. counterpart. But cashiers in night clubs, restaurants, shops and drug stores all refused to accept our money when it was offered to them last week.

We even had a taxi driver and a hatcheck girl demand American money when we offered them tips in Canadian silver.

"What's the big idea?" demanded a New York cabbie when he was given a 50-cent tip at the end of a $3 ride. There's a 15-cent (unofficial) minimum tipping charge in New York at present. We decided the tip was more than generous.

"Something the matter?" the driver was asked. "That's worth 51 and a half American cents."

"Listen, buddy," he replied, "I don't want any of this foreign stuff. I want American money."

To save further argument we complied. But it became progressively worse as the visit wore on. A clothing store on Lexington Avenue agreed to take Canadian dollars, but at a 5 per cent discount in favor of the firm.

A day or so later we visited Eddie Condon's night club down in Greenwich Village. A tip to the hatcheck girl and . . .

"Now just a minute, just a minute," she began. "This," she said, picking up a Canadian two-bit piece, "is no good at all. Neither is this" (another one).

The crowning glory came when we visited the United Nations Building—an immense glass tower on the banks of the East River. The UN is supposed to be working to foster friendship among the peoples of the world.

"American money only," the cashier snapped.

We were thankful that we were well away from some of the cigarette vending machines when they were opened to collect the take. A Canadian two-bit piece worked just as well as an American one in the machines.

(Short of dollar funds in Honolulu last year, we found a New Zealand shilling, worth 17 cents, was a perfect substitute for a quarter in any of the slot machines.)

It was a pleasant change to arrive back in Canada last week. An American dollar bill, proffered anywhere between Montreal and Victoria, always brought the same response:

"There's a three-cent discount on American money."

But at least they were pleasant about it.
